Congress Okays Plan to Shift Federal Loans

Byrnes Says Move Makes Debt Ceiling Figure Meaningless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given President Johnson authority to shift $4.2 billion in government-held loans to private investors in the next year.

The Senate completed action on the measure Monday, voting 50 to 20 to accept minor House changes in an original Senate bill. In the showdown, 47 Democrats and 3 Republicans voted to clear the measure; 18 Republicans and 2 Democrats opposed it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee approved today a national debt ceiling of $330 billion, a figure $2 billion lower than President Johnson's administration had asked.

The House Ways and Means Committee began work today on a proposed new national debt ceiling. But its senior Republican member said congressional authorization to transfer the federal loans to private investors made any ceiling figure meaningless.

The Treasury asked Congress Monday to raise the limit of $332 billion. Congress must act by June 30 or the present ceiling of $328 billion will drop automatically to $285 billion. Congress so far has never failed to raise the ceiling.

Byrnes Comment

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., said the committee would get no help from the GOP as it considered the request. Democrats "made the debt ceiling meaningless" by pushing through the loan transfer bill, he said.

"Let them worry about it," Byrnes said. "I don't see why we should vote for any particular new ceiling." He and other Republicans charged the authorization bill sent to President Johnson actually was another way of borrowing which would not figure in the debt total.

Democrats replied that the legislation merely broadened a proposal made more than 10

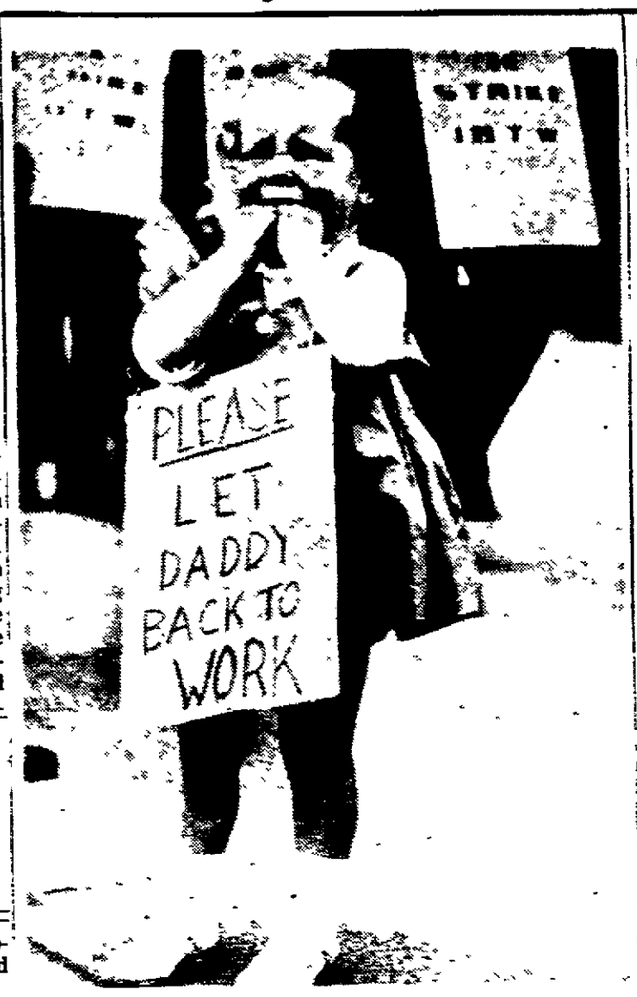
Dismissal Plea For 'Happeners' Is Turned Down

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A defense request for dismissal of lewd and lascivious conduct charges against two students accused of a nude art performance was rejected by a judge Monday.

Mrs. Susan G. Darcey, 21, and Jeffrey K. Hubbell, 20, both students at the University of Wisconsin, are accused of staging a bathing show as an art "happening" at the Milwaukee Art Center last month.

County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. ruled against defense arguments that the charges should be tossed out because the arrest warrants were issued on hearsay. County Judge Herbert A. Schultz said he signed the warrants after viewing photographs.



Pat Leonard, 3, of Charlestown, Mass., burst into tears as she momentarily lost sight of her dad while picketing with him at the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. headquarters building in Boston. Mothers pushing baby carriages also joined the strikers as they swelled the ranks of the picket line to some 2,000 marchers. The strike by the telephone repairmen and installers goes into its 10th day as an injunction was sought against the company. (AP Wirephoto)

Discuss Ending War

Sukarno Yields to New Government, Allows Malaysia Peace Talks

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno has yielded to his new government and has agreed to peace negotiations with Malaysia.

Radio Jakarta reported Monday night that Sukarno had told Foreign Minister Adam Malik he could meet with Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak of Malaysia to discuss ways of ending the 3-year-old undeclared war between the two countries.

Malik told newsmen today he probably would leave for Bangkok later this week. Razak arrived in the Thai capital Monday.

Weekend Meeting

The Indonesian ambassador to Bangkok, M. Diah, returned to Jakarta for consultations and told newsmen that Malik and Razak probably would meet this weekend.

"We in Malaysia hope and pray that it will be possible to end this confrontation." Razak told a banquet in Bangkok Monday night.

The army-backed government dominated by Lt. Gen. Suharto has been trying to arrange an end to the sporadic war with Malaysia since it took power in February. But Sukarno, 64, who ordered the "crush Malaysia" campaign when the federation came into being in 1963, had steadfastly refused.

Persident Furious

Malid told a student delegation Friday that Sukarno had "advised him" not to go to the talks in Bangkok.

"The president was furious at me He advised me not to go abroad," Malik told the students who were protesting the government's failure to curb inflation and deal with the country's economic woes. Malik told them the anti-Malaysian campaign "has drained us financially" and "led to price increases."

Sukarno claimed that Malaysia, a federation of former British territories in Southeast Asia, was created by Britain to preserve its influence in the area and as a threat to Indonesia. He sent raiding parties into Malaysian Borneo and to the Malayan Peninsula and used the campaign to divert attention from economic woes at home and to enhance his prestige among developing countries.

Britain, Australia and New Zealand sent 50,000 army and navy personnel to the area to help defend Malaysia, and the Indonesian raids were a failure. They have virtually stopped since the unsuccessful Communist coup in Indonesia last Oct. 1.

Changes Not Strong Enough

UW Students Invade Bascom Hall In Protest of Draft Procedures

MADISON (AP) — Student demonstrators, their numbers dwindling and the danger of disciplinary action increasing, called off a 10-hour University of Wisconsin sit-in today in protest to draft policy

About 500 students invaded historic Bascom Hall shortly after midnight, angered by faculty rejection of their demands to withhold academic grades from draft officials.

The invasion was free of incident, but it failed to budge school officials who decided to wait out the disturbance.

The exodus also was orderly. It began after protestors took a show of hands from those who wanted to carry on the demonstration. About two dozen of the 200 students raised their hands.

The students pushed their way past outmanned campus security guards to commandeer Bascom Hall which houses the office of university president Fred Harvey Harrington.

They seated themselves on the floor in the narrow corridors of the aging stone building and vowed to remain until their demands were met. Campus police made no immediate effort to eject them.

Change Policy

The faculty at the 29,000-student university voted overwhelmingly at a meeting Monday to make changes in the school's policy toward the draft, but the revisions fell well short of the protesters' demands that all cooperation be ended.

"We're here to protect our university from an alien military influence. We're here to protect our school and ourselves from draft discrimination" said Joh Coatsworth, a graduate student in history.

Coatsworth, who said he was among students who defied a State Department ban on travel to Communist Cuba three years ago, was elected to one of about a dozen posts of leadership in the protest effort Monday night.

The students moved into Bascom Hall when they found their first objective, the campus administration building, was locked and guarded by university police. The protesters had staged a five-day sit-in at the administration building last week.

Historic Building

Bascom Hall is a historic building on the crest of a hill at the end of a mile - long thoroughfare linking the campus to the state Capitol. It bears the university's revered "sifting and winnowing" plaque.

Ralph Hanson, director of university police, stood on the steps of Bascom Hall and, with bullhorn in hand, tried to persuade the students to halt their invasion.

Ky Wins Allegiance Of Hue Commander

Split in Opposition to Premier Widens as Last Stronghold Surrenders

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The break in the ranks of the opposition to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky widened further today as the commander of the mutinous 1st Vietnamese Division in the Buddhist stronghold of Hue reportedly pledged his allegiance to Ky.

Defense Ministry sources said Brig. Gen. Pham Xuan Nhuan wired Ky saying he was giving up his opposition It was not clear immediately whether he also spoke for the troops he commands. The 1st Division provides the military backbone of the opposition in the northern city.

It was the first break in the rebel front in Hue, the remaining stronghold of opposition to the premier.

Little Concern

Heartened by its victory over other rebels in Da Nang, the military regime exhibited little outward concern over the continuing dissidence in Hue, 50 miles northwest of Da Nang.

U.S. officials continued their backstage diplomatic role with contacts with the main figures in Hue, Thich Tri Quang and Gens. Nguyen Chanh Thi and Ton That Dinh, successively fired by Ky as commander of the army's northernmost 1st Corps.

Ky's ruling junta showed its confidence also by assembling 1,000 civilian and army representatives at a political congress in Saigon to reaffirm its power. Buddhists boycotted the meeting.

Election Promise

With U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the audience, the military chief of state, Lt Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, said once more the regime would carry out its promise of elections this fall for a constitutional convention. He added that the 10-man junta was considering a proposal to add five civilians to its membership.

While Ky defended his military action against Da Nang as essential to preserve the nation, 400 Buddhist demonstrators marched peacefully before the guarded U.S. Embassy to protest the crushing of the Da Nang

Carley Gives Viet Nam View

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — David Carley, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, called today for an immediate American cease-fire in Viet Nam, withdrawal of U. S. troops to defense perimeters, and free elections there under United Nations auspices if possible

Carley's major policy statements came at an early morning press conference here today.

He said his views were now being expressed after consideration of several months. The statement had been cleared with high-ranking Washington officials, Carley said. But he declined to name them, saying that many of those with whom he had checked did not agree with his stand.

Although his views were somewhat similar to those of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., Carley said he had not cleared them with the senator.

Four-Step Program

The United States should initiate a four-step program to bring peace to Southeast Asia, according the the Democratic national committeeman.

A policy statement explaining that the United States recognizes that its primary moral commitment in Viet Nam is not to subvert the 1954 Geneva Accords must be made first, Carley said. "At the same time, however, we must carefully point out that our actions up to now have been undertaken to permit the process outlined in 1954 to take place," he added.

Wisconsin Man Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force M. Sgt. Raymond C. Jajtner, 36, husband of Mrs. Gloria E Jajtner of Menomonee Falls, Wis., has been killed in action in Viet Nam, the Defense Department said Monday.

Romney-Javits GOP Ticket Is Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's suggestion of a 1968 Romney-Javits ticket gives Republican moderates a combination many of them might be willing to chance in an effort to retain party control.

Naturally, there are dissenters to the New York governor's statement Monday that there is "a growing feeling among Republicans it might be nice" to have Michigan Gov. George Romney run for president and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., for vice president two years from now.

While not making a formal endorsement, Rockefeller said "with candidates of the caliber of these two great leaders we will be returned by the people of this country to national trust and responsibility."

Partisans of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who currently is on an inspection trip to South Viet Nam, gagged somewhat at Rockefeller's suggestion of a ticket they think their own man might well head.

Michigan's Gov. George Romney put an arm around New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as they hold an impromptu conference at a Republican fund-raising dinner in Garden City, N.J. Monday night. He hinted he favored a 1968 GOP ticket of Romney and Sen. Jacob Javits, New York. (AP Wirephoto)

Civil Strife Ends

Tension Leaves Face of Da Nang

By AL CHANG

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — After a week of fighting and death in the streets, Da Nang put on a new face today. Smiles lighted the grim, intent faces of war.

Shops, barred and shuttered for a week, were thrown open to business. People again clogged the streets as they went about normal, everyday chores.

Policemen returned to their posts, replacing soldiers who had taken over armed control of major street intersections. The traffic officers had smiles as they made the precise, almost mechanical gestures which kept traffic flowing in the narrow streets.

Everywhere, tension was gone, from the faces of pretty young girls, withered old men and all the other people who made a town live.

The clamor of voices and motors replaced the chatter of machine-guns and the whine of bullets at a service station where I photographed a pitched battle a few days ago.

Down the street at the main market, where I had photographed another stiff fight, merchants and customers smiled as they haggled over prices. But the smiles could not rub out bullet holes in the walls.

Women with baskets of goods suspended from bamboo poles trotted by the street corner where I had snapped a woman crying Friday as she tried to comfort her wounded husband. The woman was there again today. Her bashful half grin told me she recognized me and that her husband was doing better.

Throughout the city people were clearing away the debris of war from the streets and sidewalks

At Tinh Hoi pagoda, stronghold of the dissident Buddhists, the faces of the shaven monks and their followers registered defeat, but the tension imposed by the threat of death was gone. The pagoda was the scene of numerous pitched battles during the week.

One Death Blamed on Storm

Thunderstorms, High Winds Sweep Southeast Wisconsin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms raked southeastern Wisconsin Monday, unleashing record rains and destructive winds.

One death was linked to the storms which swept the Madison, Watertown and Waukesha areas.

High winds splintered farm buildings, snapped power lines and uprooted trees. A section of roof was ripped from a Watertown factory.

A barn rebuilt after the Palm Sunday tornadoes of a year ago was destroyed on a farm near Watertown only three days after a barn dance celebrating its completion.

Timothy D. Gallagher, 17, Sun Prairie, was killed when the car in which he was riding skidded into a street lamp pole in Madison at the height of the storm. Deputy Coroner Clyde Chamberlain of Dane County said the heavy rain contributed to the crash.

Madison Drenched

The storms drenched Madison with a record 3.57 inches of rain within a six-hour period. The rainfall was the heaviest ever measured in Madison for a single day in May.

Southeastern Wisconsin remained under a tornado watch for six hours until nearly 10 p.m. There was one report of a twister in the Watertown area, but it was not confirmed

Four persons suffered minor injuries when buildings collapsed or roofs were ripped away by winds.

The U.S Weather Bureau said the thunderstorms towered nine miles high as they rolled across the southern part of the state. Winds ranged up to 70 miles an hour, weathermen said.

Vic Gehrke of Watertown, the Dodge County Civil Defense director, said damage would run into thousands of dollars.

Gehrke said he counted half a dozen barns destroyed and an equal number of homes with damage to roofs in a tour of the county.

In the Lebanon area, northeast of Watertown, the winds tore apart the new barn on the Ray Fredrick farm little more than one year after a tornado had demolished the previous barn on the same site.

The barn had been rebuilt after the death-dealing Palm Sunday tornadoes that struck Wisconsin and the Midwest, sweeping through the same area. A barn dance had been held at Fredrick's farm last Friday night to celebrate completion of the structure, neighbors said.

A farm hand, Ernst Dornfeld, 70, suffered cuts and bruises when struck by lumber as the barn collapsed. Gehrke said the pattern of destruction of the barn indicated a tornado, but witnesses said no funnel cloud had been sighted.

Minor Injuries

Ervin Bankert, 29, and his father-in-law, Ralph Mekelburg Sr., 66, suffered minor injuries when the winds bowled over the garage in which they had taken shelter at Bankert's home south of Watertown.

In Waukesha, a workman, Charles K. Detker, 2, was hurt slightly when the winds blew away the roof of an apartment building under construction.

Watertown police reported a 40-foot section of roof was ripped from the Mid-State Shoe Co. factory while employes were working inside, but no one was hurt.

A semitrailer truck laden with lumber was upset on Highway 109 north of Watertown.

Barn damage was also report-

Storm damage in the Fox Valley area was said to be relatively minor. Several utility poles were downed and there were scattered reports of lightning damage. Rain measured less than one inch.

$1.60 in Two Steps

House Debate Opens On Minimum Wage Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House opened debate today on a bill to raise the federal minimum wage in two steps to $1.60 and extend its coverage to 7.2 million more employes, including nearly a half million farm workers.

Opponents warn inflation and unemployment could result from the bill, which would increase the present $1 25 an hour minimum to $1.60 by Feb. 1, 1968 There would be an interim increase to $1.40 next Feb. 1.

In one of the most controversial sections of the bill, farm workers would be included at $1 an hour next Feb 1, and get two annual 15-cent raises to $1.30 by Feb. 1. 1969. The other newly covered workers would start at the same level but get additional 15-cent raises to $1 60 by 1971

Passage Certain

Passage of a bill in some form is regarded as certain, but several attempts are expected to trim both the wage increase and the coverage No votes are expected before Wednesday.

Chief target of members from rural areas is the proposal to bring farm workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act for the first time.

The bill is aimed at farming operations with at least seven full-time employes The House Education and Labor Committee says this would affect 485,000 employes, or 39 per cent of the nation's farm workers, but only 1.6 per cent of the farms.

In its proposed new coverage the bill exceeds the 4.2 million additional workers recommended by the administration. The administration did not ask for coverage of farm workers.

The proposed wage increase also reaches $1.60 faster than the administration wanted. President Johnson did not propose a specific increase but administration opposition forced the committee to recede from the $1.75 top it agreed on last year.

The committee estimates the total increase in payroll costs for the first year of the bill would be slightly over $1 billion.

Wilson was expected to issue orders to the navy soon under a state of national emergency proclaimed Monday by Queen Elizabeth II But he assured the House of Commons that naval vessels would not be used indiscriminately.

Special Cholesterol Diet Not Needed or Helpful

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please mail me a diet for cholesterol. — C.N.C.

I won't send you any special cholesterol diet because I don't think it is either needed or helpful. Some very simple precautions will do everything that can be done about cholesterol, unless your condition is such that your doctor needs to give you special medication.

Cholesterol, a fatty material, is always present in the blood. It belongs there. If we ate foods which contained no cholesterol at all, our body would still create it. Even rabbits, existing entirely on vegetable foods, have cholesterol.

The danger isn't in having cholesterol, but on what happens to it later. As our arteries harden, cholesterol is part of the conglomeration of material which attaches itself to the walls of the arteries, thickening them.

It has been suspected that if the amount of cholesterol in the blood could be lowered, maybe our arteries would stay healthy longer. This, however, is an assumption and not necessarily a fact. Experiments along this line show that some people with high cholesterol have good arteries, and some with low cholesterol have poor ones. This raises a question: Is some other fat, or some other condition, the really important key?

We know that people who are overweight have more trouble with their arteries and their hearts. Therefore my belief is that the more practical approach is to take care of our weight and let the cholesterol take care of itself.

The obsessive interest in cholesterol and diet has reached the point that some people, learning that eggs contain cholesterol, are afraid to eat a single, inoffensive one. Some of these same people eat so much of other things that they are way overweight and their cholesterol level often is equally high.

They are, in short, kidding themselves. They think that if they don't eat eggs, or take so many spoonfuls of safflower oil, or whatever notion they have picked up, they are protecting their health.

It's my feeling that they would do more for themselves just by controlling their weight. It's an extremely interesting observation that people who exercise regularly have much lower average cholesterol levels.

The proper diet is one low in calories and low in fat.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been married for four years and have not been able to have children. My husband has a low, inactive sperm count. Could you recommend something? — Mrs. J.M.

Occasionally treatment with thyroid and hormones increases the sperm count. Every effort also should be made to improve general health: Good diet, ample rest, reduction of smoking and drinking. Doubtless your doctor already has advised this. I suggest that you consider adoption of a child while you are still young and can give one a happy home and upbringing.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do coffee or tea increase high blood pressure? — Mrs. L.B.

Moderate use of coffee or tea won't increase blood pressure. Excessive use can, because of the stimulating qualities.

Note to Mrs. K.: Ice water or iced tea will not bother your arthritis.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Proposed Limiting Of Attorneys Opposed by AP

OSHKOSH (AP) — A bill before the Legislature that would restrict pretrial statements by attorneys has met strong opposition from the Wisconsin Associated Press Association.

The measure would forbid law officers, district attorneys and defense counsel from issuing statements on guilt or innocense in criminal cases before a trial.

The group at its spring meeting during the weekend also commended the state Senate Judiciary Committee for approving a bill that would strengthen Wisconsin's anti-secrecy law.

Copies of the resolutions will be sent to the Assembly speaker and the president pro temps of the Senate.

Plan Commission Sets Wolf River Zoning Guidelines

Policy Schedules Assistance, Defines Administration Setup

Guidelines for formulating and implementing zoning ordinances for the eight member counties of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission were adopted Monday by the commission's land-use policy committee

At an afternoon session, the committee approved policy statements on preparing the text and map of the zoning ordinance which will be presented for adoption by each member county and their respective towns. He also set policy on scheduling the zoning assistance program in each county, and the concept of a planning administrator to implement the zoning ordinance in each county.

The scheduling policy established priorities for the eight counties to receive assistance in the preparation of a zoning ordinance.

County Priorities

The priority given to each county and the approximate starting date of the program is as follows:

Langlade County, program under way; Forest, July; Outagamie, September; Winnebago, November; Shawano, January, 1967; Waupaca, March, 1967; Waushara, May, 1967.

Menominee County already has a zoning ordinance.

It is expected to take approximately nine months to complete the program in each county, depending on the problems which occur.

Establishes Guidelines

The policy statement on preparing the zoning ordinances establishes guidelines for doing so.

The commission staff would meet with the zoning committee of each county board and county agents to review procedure and establish a county zoning committee. The staff would then schedule meetings with the committee to conduct a land-use problems survey and review the commission's suggested zoning policy guide. After a preliminary ordinance has been prepared, it will be made available for public comment and subsequent revision by the zoning committee.

When a final draft of the ordinance is complete, it will be submitted to each county board for adoption and eventual adoption by the towns in each county.

Phase Three

The third phase of the zoning program is the concept of a planning administrator to implement the zoning ordinance in the counties.

The commission staff recommended four administrators be hired, one to serve Forest, Langlade and Menominee counties; one to serve Shawano and Waupaca counties; one to serve Winnebago and Waushara counties and one for Outagamie County to serve as overall regional chief administrator.

The commission staff proposed the four administrators be employed by the commission and that their services be paid by each county on a percentage basis.

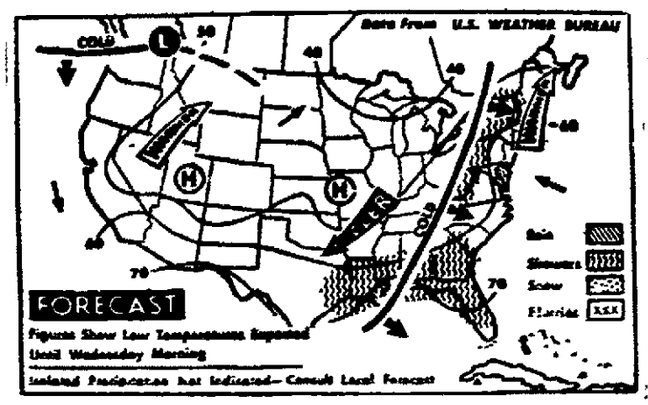
Several committee members questioned whether the administrators should be employed by the commission or the counties. Also questioned was the suggested pairing of the counties.

701 Planning Grant

William Morris, the commission's executive director, said if the administrators are employed by the commission, the commission could make an attempt to have part of the salaries covered by funds from its 701 planning grant.

He added that having the administrators employed by the commission would remove them from much of the political pressure they might receive if they were under the employment of the counties. Morris noted that the administrators could always be faced with the threat of losing their jobs if they proposed something which was contrary to the policy of the county board.

Gordon A. Bubolz, commission chairman, said he would prefer to have the administrators employed by the counties. He said such a structure would make the administrators more responsive to the persons they board.



Scattered Showers and thundershowers are forecast for tonight in the Gulf and Atlantic states, the Ohio Valley, lower Great Lakes and north Atlantic states. It will be warmer in most of the northeast, eastern Gulf and northern and central Plains and colder from the western Gulf through the Great Lakes. (AP Wirephoto Map)

President of OCTC Reports Shortage of Elementary Teachers

KAUKAUNA — E. H. Gordon, president of Outagamie County Teachers College, Monday reported difficulty in finding enough teachers to fill the openings listed at his office.

He reports teachers for grades one through eight are in great demand and although 46 sophomores will be graduating from his institution this year, many plan on going right on to another college to receive 4-year teaching degrees, thus he cannot fill all the openings filed in his office

Qualified teachers seeking employment in any of these grades can contact the teachers college and receive a list of openings reported.

CLINTON, Conn (AP) — This town has abolished High Taxes — at least the road with that name

High Taxes Road was named that in 1955 by a real estate developer. Recently 30 of the road's residents got the Board of Selectmen to change the name to Oakwood Lane.

Taxes May Rise to Meet Benefit Hike

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The elderly American couple who retired in 1950 and qualified for the then $120 maximum monthly benefit is now receiving $168.60 — reflecting the increases in benefit levels over the years. But because of the relentless climb in living costs in these 16 years, this couple's "real" income has been raised, not $48.60, but only $6.67 a month. In actual comparative buying power today the $168.60 benefit check shrinks to $126.67.

Porter

The very elderly couple who retired as far back as 1940 and drew that year's top $68.40 in monthly Social Security benefits is now receiving $152.50 — or more than double the benefit a quarter-century ago. But because of rising living costs, this couple's benefit check will actually buy $1.32 less than in 1940.

Before Social Security benefits were raised 7 per cent across the board last year, the maximum being received by retired couples was the equivalent of just 3 cents more in buying power than the maximum received in 1950.

No Financial Leeway

These statistics, compiled and to be released soon by the Diversified Investment Fund, Inc., in Elizabeth, N.Y., dramatize the position of those who now depend primarily on Social Security benefits and underline the vital importance of outside savings and investments to supplement retirement income. In stark summary, the millions among the elderly who depend entirely on Social Security benefit checks are just barely keeping up with the rising cost of living. For them there is no financial leeway for any rise in living standards or any way to share in the nation's prosperity.

Since 1950 per capital personal income across the nation has nearly doubled to today's $2,872 — far outpacing the 34 per cent cost of living rise. Even assuming a living cost rise in the 2½-3 per cent range this year, the pay of the vast majority of workers will rise enough to keep them ahead.

Swallowed by Inflation

In contrast, by the end of 1966 well over half of 1965's Social Security benefit boost will have been swallowed by inflation. The dollar put away at the end of last year already has dwindled in value to less than 99 cents; the dollar saved just one year ago is now worth only about 97 cents.

This erosion may still be imperceptible to you, the young worker. But it is beginning to dig deeply into the budget of the retired individual. The brunt of inflation always is borne by those living on fixed or slow-rising pensions and by those in lowest-paid jobs.

What does this mean to all of us?

It means that there will be mounting pressure again for higher Social Security benefits and for increased liberalization of the Social Security "retirement test" allowing only $1,500 in earning earnings before Social Security benefits are reduced.

Steeper Taxes

It means that we who are still working and paying taxes will be faced with the prospect of steeper taxes to cover benefits going to those already out of the work force.

It means that we are moving closer to the point at which the working public will balk at paying ever-higher Social Security taxes to finance ever-broadening, ever-rising benefits.

It means there will be more and more pressure on corporations to expand and extend pension plans for retired employes, to design pensions to keep pace with price rises and to loosen mandatory retirement policies.

It certainly shouts a message to all of us to strive for outside income sources — savings, investments, insurance, etc. — which will supplement our future pension benefits. The past and present of others warn us that these will be essential if we are to live in dignity in our own tomorrow.

Ky Wins Allegiance Of Commander at Hue

revolt. The marchers included 150 robed monks.

U.S. B52s from Guam spearheaded the war against the Communists today by plastering a suspected enemy troop concentration of about 350 men 35 miles west of the South Vietnamese coastal city of Quang Ngai, but monsoon rains again curbed American attacks against North Viet Nam. Navy planes flew 32 missions and the Air Force only one.

Ground Fighting

On the ground, the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division reported killing 17 more Viet Cong in scattered actions in the central highlands, while the U.S. Marines claimed 28 killed around Da Nang and Phu Bai. U.S. 25th Infantry division patrols reported killing nine guerrillas 35 miles northwest of Saigon

Rather than a direct troop move like the one against Da Nang, the government appeared to be planning to cut off Hue from the rest of the country to starve out the dissidents Loyal troops held positions around the old imperial capital.

Ky was asked how he planned to bring the dissidence to an end in Hue as he emerged from the political congress. He told reporters: "I don't know yet. We will see."

Students Parade

Some 500 students paraded around Saigon University with banners demanding national elections and withdrawal of Ky's troops from the northern provinces, where the Buddhists and military leaders opposed to Ky have been challenging his authority for two months. Police did not interfere with the orderly demonstration.

The government released some 2,000 Buddhist followers who had been held inside the Buddhist Institute by a cordon of troops and five rows of barbed wire following a wild anti-American outburst Monday.

The exodus left only a handful of monks, institute employes and Boy Scouts inside the large compound. But the Buddhist leadership still planned an anti-government "March of Peace" in Saigon Wednesday to show opposition to the government.

American Shot

The U.S. Embassy announced that an American fired the shot that killed a Vietnamese soldier in front of the Buddhist Institute Monday and triggered the anti-American riot. The rioters burned an American truck and Jeep before troops restored order.

An embassy spokesman said a guard on a gasoline truck fired the shot when it was surrounded by a crowd of Vietnamese outside the institute. He quoted the soldier as saying: "It seemed like everyone started to move in on us. I yelled to them in Vietnamese to move away. They continued to surround the vehicle. I fired my weapon to the ground. I had no intention to kill."

Ambassador Lodge wrote the Buddhist Institute expressing deep regret and sympathy for the victim's family, the spokesman said. He added that compensation would be paid.

Administration Relieved

Although Ky sent his troops in Da Nang nine days ago without consulting U.S. officials, the Johnson administration was greatly relieved that the premier had accomplished his goal without precipitating a full-fledged civil war.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk came out of a meeting with congressional leaders in Washington and told newsmen: "Our hope is this matter will be resolved before very long."

As Da Nang's shopkeepers reopened their doors and swept away the rubble left by a week of fighting, U.S. Air Force and Marine jets began returning to the big air base on the outskirts of the city. The planes hastily took off Saturday for other bases after rebel forces mortared the field.

Spokesmen said all Air Force planes would be back by tonight and all Marine planes by Wednesday.

Normal Operations

Two squadrons of Marine F4B Phantoms and Air Force fighter and cargo planes took off from the field, indicating a resumption of normal operations.

The 1st Corps military headquarters in Da Nang also came back to life. Brig. Gen. Tran Thanh Phong, Ky's acting commander, estimated that 80 per cent of the staff had returned to duty and that 60 per cent of the military units in Da Nang had returned to their stations.

The 3,000-man government task force sent by Ky to crush the rebellion continued searching for isolated snipers and weapons. Its chief, Brig. Gen Du Quoc Dong, reported no opposition. He said an ordnance company of rebel troops across the Da Nang River just "stay in place. They cause no more trouble."

A surrender ultimatum to those soldiers who still had not returned to their units was extended 48 hours until 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Brookfield Damage

Lightning struck the gymnasium roof of Brookfield Central High School in the Milwaukee while 200 guests were attending a sports banquet inside. The dinner continued after firemen patched the roof.

In Madison, the Weather Bureau said the rains exceeded the previous one-day May record of 2.6 inches measured on May 6, 1960.

Deputy Coroner Chamberlain reported that witnesses said the car in which the Gallagher youth was riding spun on the highway before it crashed into the lamp pole.

"We do feel that the rain did contribute a great deal to the accident," Chamberlain said. He classified the fatality as storm-related.

In Milwaukee, firemen rescued a 14-year-old invalid boy after lightning touched off a blaze in the attic of his family's house Monday night.

The boy, Thomas Gengler, escaped injury, although the fire caused an estimated $4,000 damage to the home.

In Sheboygan, fire swept Homer's, a drive-in restaurant, after lightning struck an exhaust fan on the roof. Firemen said damage would run into thousands of dollars.

Rains swamped streets in several cities, including Madison, Beaver Dam and the Milwaukee suburb of West Allis. Power failures pocked the storm area.

Youth Killed On Road Wet From Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A teenager en route to work after school was killed in a one-car crash during a storm Monday.

The accident drove Wisconsin's 1966 traffic toll to 309, compared with 322 one year ago.

Timothy D. Gallagher, 17, Sun Prairie, died Monday afternoon when the car in which he was riding skidded into a lamp pole along a Madison street.

Authorities said Gallagher and the driver, Larry Schoenemann, 16, Sun Prairie, were going to work at a Madison drive-in restaurant after school. The auto spun on the rain-slick Highway 151 at the peak of a severe thunderstorm, hit the steel pole and overturned.

Both youths were hurled from the car and Gallagher was crushed beneath it, police said. Schoenemann remained in critical condition at a Madison hospital late Monday night.

As a second step, a team of high-level officials must travel to Viet Nam and negotiate with the Viet Cong, the governments of North and South Viet Nam, China, Russia and other interested nations, he said. Purpose of the talks would be to arrange free elections and reunification of the country and to arrange for the withdrawal of all foreign troops. The United Nations would direct these steps if possible and the U.N. troops would also eventually be withdrawn from Viet Nam, according to Carley's plan.

Withdraw Troops

As the process begins, Carley said, the U. S. would have to withdraw its troops to agreed-upon, negotiated, locations. Carley evidently supported the enclave theory of military policy but refused to say so openly.

Once the procedures of elections and reunification are underway and U. N. troops are on the scene the U. S. should begin to withdraw troops from the perimeters. But final withdrawal, perhaps only to neighboring Aisian areas, should be completed only as all agreements are honored.

In the meantime, Carley said, American citizens must continue to seriously and honestly debate Viet Nam.

UW Students Protest Anew In Madison

dred keys but my orders are to keep you people out," Hanson said. "If you go into the door you are subject to arrest."

Coatsworth told the group, after an open door was found at the side of the building to disregard Hanson's warning and march in.

About 1,000 students had gathered outside the hall. Half of them heeded Coatsworth.

Withholds Comment

Hanson made no effort to bar the students by force and withheld comment on whether any attempts would be made to evict them.

Police in Madison, the state's second largest city with a population of 170,000, were standing by off the campus.

The students have aimed their week - long demonstrations at selective service plans to use classroom grades, class rank and nationwide tests to determine student deferments from the draft.

The protesters have demanded that no information be furnished to draft officials. The current university policy is to provide the information only upon students' signed requests.

Faculty Meeting

A faculty meeting Monday recommended that the university stop sending the information directly to draft officials, but that individual students be allowed to obtain necessary certification and forward it if they desire.

The protesters insist that classroom grades and rank not be released to either draft officials or students for any reason.

They have argued that use of grades in a lottery to determine military service interferes with academic freedom. The students have called on the university to condemn the practice publicly and refuse all cooperation.

The students met for about five hours in the Great Hall of the Student Union after the faculty meeting and heard a series of speakers, including history Prof. Harvey Goldberg.

Real Problem

"The real problem," said Goldberg told the students it was "a colossal waste of time" to single out the draft issue for protest.

Goldberg, "is not the draft but how to find a way to end a war in which we are being cut down."

He recommended that the students form an anti-war organization. Madison is already the headquarters for the National Coordinating Committee to End the War in Viet Nam.

That group is headed by Frank Emspak of Yonkers, N.Y., a former University of Wisconsin student who was among the demonstrators moving into Bascom Hall.

The demonstrators were heckled by other students as they entered the hall. A few eggs and one punch were thrown.

The faculty had recommended at its 90 - minute meeting Monday afternoon that a full-scale review be made of the university's policy on the draft.

Prof. August G. Eckhardt, chairman of the influential University Committee, said he believed it would be illegal for the school to refuse to provide students with transcripts of their grades upon request.

Use of Fieldhouse

Eckhardt defended use of the university fieldhouse earlier this month for the draft deferment test. He said refusal would have violated the long-standing university policy that facilities were open to anyone regardless of their views.

"We've never proceeded that way in the past and I hope we don't proceed that way now," Eckhardt said. The professors applauded.

A graduate student protested. "That was not a meeting of men of ideas. It was a meeting of businessmen who had to get home to supper."

The faculty meeting had been scheduled after the demonstrations began at the administration building last week.

years ago in the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Cut Appropriations

The proceeds of the loan transfers would reduce appropriations and thus bring the administrative budget closer to balance. The interest cost on these loans is expected to be greater than straight Treasury borrowing.

In the past, Byrnes has fought for as low a debt ceiling as would permit the government to operate. He said the newly approved transfer technique could be expanded almost indefinitely to raise additional funds.

The bill provides for the transfer of some $10.9 billion in government loans. The administration has said it intends to shift only $4.2 billion to investors next year.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Budget Director Charles L. Schultze told the committee Monday the deficit for the year ending June 30 would run $3.9 billion.

But the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, to which the Ways and Means Committee usually listens, forecast a deficit of only $2.5 billion. It said that unless spending shoots up, there should be a surplus next year instead of the $1.8 billion deficit Johnson forecast.

Little Hope For Boy Lost Off Green Bay

GREEN BAY (AP) — The Coast Guard resumes its search for 10-year-old Thomas Le Duc today while hopes grew dimmer that he would be found alive.

The boy was last seen last Sunday afternoon as he paddled off the east shore of Green Bay in a five-foot plastic boat.

The Coast Guard, a dozen private boats and even a few airplanes crisscrossed the bay Monday hoping to sight Thomas.

Not a trace of him or his boat was found. The search was called off for the night at about 6 p.m. because of high seas.

"He was last seen 40 to 50 yards off shore paddling with his hands," said Lt. Don Landry of the Brown County Sheriff's Office. "The water was shallow and choppy where he was but it could have changed pretty quickly and blown him out."

"I'd say the chances now were very, very slim. It gets pretty rough in there."

Dirksen Back at Work With Broken Leg Bone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who broke a thigh bone in a fall at Walter Reed Army Hospital May 10, returned to his office today.

The senator, 70, suffered a fractured right thigh bone when he fell while getting out of a bed. He had entered the hospital to undergo tests.

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Woman's Editor

Jack Winter learned his trade making men's suits, starting in 1933 in the basement of his father's retail clothing store. In the intervening years his name has come to mean high style and excitement in the world of sports and casual wear for women.

The change came about during World War II when the firm made suits for women in defense plants. Mr. Winter rebelled at the 'baggy' slacks women wore and struck the term 'slacks' from his firm's vocabulary. His design of the tunnel loop waist was the first attempt by an American designer to style women's pants differently from men's.

This season's Jack Winter look, shown the fashion press at Rainbow Springs Resort during the Heritage Milwaukee preview last week, is young and full of zest. Aimed primarily at the college girl (although certainly not just appealing to her), Jack Winter offers Juniors and a new 'Pet' group he calls "A Petty for Your Thoughts".

Look Crocheted

Color and texture are the style lines to jot down for buying reference when shopping for fall. The press preview drew applause for sweaters that are knitted but look as if handmade by a parent crocheting grandmother. There are loops and twists and fringe on almost all the tops. Bonded knits hug the figure and the stretch knits are again going to flatter the less-than-perfectly endowed. Texture has made its mark in stretch fabric, and is seen in both pants and in the stockings that finish the shortie skirt look.

One of the show shockers was a 'rah-rah' style college type V neck in deep blue, with bands of yellow on sleeve, at neck and midriff, and repeated in the matching hose.

New Shades

Color combinations were another strong side of the Jack Winter fall scenes. Plum and red were wed in textured stretch pants. Olive and black checked pants were topped by a black poor boy sweater. Plum and whiskey were new set ups.

Colors are as spicy in the Junior line as those offered by nature herself in the autumn. Cinnamon, spruce, paprika and hickory brown go along with curry and olive for a scene that has taken its tone from the countryside.

As Important

Jack Winter is more than design, however, for this is only the beginning of good fashion. What also counts — and determines the final success — is fit, and this is where the line excells. Skirts are contour waisted, or hip slung.

In the pants line there are three proportion groups: the fly front, the hip slung and the high rise. With such variety of cuts women can find little excuse for 'baggy' or ill fitting sports clothes.

Jack Winter has four production plants which will distribute almost two million garments from a central distribution building built in 1964 in Brown Deer. That same year Glen Manufacturing Company was merged into Jack Winter, Inc. The companies maintain their own manufacturing identities, with the Petti division part of Glen.

Camel and Red wool are the colors put together in the suit at left, with its matching scarf hat. The jersey blouse is gold buttoned and adds to the camel and red the colors of yellow and black.

A Gold Corduroy skirt with a contour waist band is topped by a gold and red shirt and cap, at right. Many of the outfits had matching accessories which added to the essential 'total look' that will prevail this fall.

Rooyakkers Celebrate 50th Anniversary

KIMBERLY — Mr. and Mrs. George Rooyakkers, 117 N. Elm St., are observing their 50th wedding anniversary today. They were married May 24, 1916, at Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church. Their wedding attendants, Mrs John Spaay, Port Rickey, Fla., and Henry Van Cuyk, Kimberly, are attending the celebration.

A nephew of the couple, the Rev. Robert Vandenberg, celebrated a mass of thanksgiving at 10 a.m. at Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church. Four of the Rooyakkers' grandsons served as acolytes.

A reception will be held at the Darboy Club, Darboy, from 2 to 4 p.m. after a 1 p.m. dinner.

The couple's children are Peter, Detroit, Mich.; Henry, Anthony, Everett, and Mrs. Richard Van Lansen, Kimberly; Mrs. Ray Bongers, Little Chute; Mrs. Carlton Ulmen, Appleton; Francis, Leo and Mrs Ray McCormick, Darboy and George, Hollandtown.

Mr. and Mrs Rooyakkers also have 40 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Dermatologists Condemn Sun Tan Fad as Unhealthy

One dermatologist (skin specialist) has predicted that suntanning some day will no longer be a "status symbol" and that people will quit baking their outer hides to a golden brown each summer.

The dermatologists have long known the hazards of suntanning, such as premature aging of the skin and various freckles and blemishes.

But your doctor also knows that, whatever the future brings, some Avericans today still are suntanners, and thus the American Medical Association suggests that if you must tan, do it without burning.

Gradual tanning with a minimum of discomfort is possible for most people. Gradual exposure to the sun is the safest and simplest method of acquiring an attractive tan. As a general rule, begin with 15 minutes exposure the first day and increase the time by a few minutes a day. The time of day is important, with the midday period, when the sun is directly overhead, being the hottest for burning purposes.

Continued tanning brings gradual changes in the blood vessels of the exposed surfaces. The connective tissue of the skin degenerates, causing wrinkles and a coarsening of texture. The "V" of the neck becomes permanently reddened and freckle-like dark spots appear on the skin. These spots can sometimes be the start of skin cancer.

Sun bleaches the hair, too, and over a period of time the sun-bleached hair becomes brittle and unmanageable.

The physical benefits of tanning are almost nil. The only beneficial effect of sunlight, other than the psychological lift of sporting a good tan, is the formation of vitamin D, and the American diet already provides an ample supply.

Rich Girl Look Replaces Poor Boy in Blass Designs

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich girls, Bill Blass has decided, are ready to throw away their poor-boy clothes and start looking like rich girls again.

Thus, not all that glittered was gold at the designer's fall collection which opened Monday but the twinkling brocades and heavy silks and slick black broadtails and crisp double-faced wools were costly enough to give the wearer a luxurious feeling.

While physical fitness was a requirement, physical perfection was not. Tentlike dresses, narrow at the shoulders, fell in voluminous folds at the short short hemline. Pleated versions opened wide like umbrellas. Seamless, flat ones had the simplicity of a yokeless Baby Snooks dress.

Inverted Umbrella

Sometimes the manikins — a few of which were designer Blass' rich young clients — hobbled into the showroom in heavy silk dinner gowns that inverted the umbrella silhouette. The fabric rose from narrow, pegged skirts wide to the wrists, like clerical robes. Beltless two-tone bloomer suits in heavy silks also did their bit to camouflage the figure.

Neither the professional nor the amateur models had anything to be ashamed of, it turned out as they paraded in Roman striped shifts with matching coats; Paisley vinyl rain coats with matching tote bags; chenille brocade sunback dresses with matching coats; or any of the long-torsoed dresses with poofs of ruffle at the hems.

Black Crepe

Sometimes bare-shouldered and slickly sophisticated in form clinging black crepe with an Indian headdress of cock feathers was the Blass recipe for looking rich.

Sometimes a transparent cape coat sparkling with silver bows over a deep decolletage white dinner dress did the trick.

Very often a trench coat in brocaded geometric pattern worn over a square-backed sheath seemed to have the dollar sign on it.

A broadtail velvet bathrobe coat trimmed in white mink; or a real broadtail suit; or a blinding jewel embroidered sheer peacock blue dress and matching jacket were other interesting Blass ways of spelling out m-o-n-e-y.

Your Problems

Reader Blames Ann for Spread Of Adult Party, Kissing Games

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have always said your column does more harm than good. Now I have proof. Remember the woman who complained about the games that were being played in her social group? Someone had suggested that they play kids' kissing games just for the fun of it and then they graduated to more adult kissing games like, "Who Have I Got?"

She described "Who Have I Got?" as a game played under a bed. The fellow is under the bed, blindfolded, and the girl crawls under the bed with him and kisses him. He is supposed to guess who she is.

Well, nobody in our crowd had ever heard of the game until they read about it in your column. Now it's all the rage. And my crazy husband is just wild about it. I wonder how many other suburban parties have been pepped up by this new game Ann Landers has taught them. Would you like to hazard a guess? — Had Enough of You

Dear Had Enough: No. I would not. It fairly boggles the imagination, Lady.

If it's true that readers respond to suggestion as easily as you seem to think, I'd like to suggest that all you suburban folks cut out the foolishness and get out from under those beds.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have become a bitter and mean person since our only son ran off and married a girl I cannot stand. Can you help me? — MRS. A.R.

Dear Mrs. A.R.: No. I cannot help you. But you can help yourself. Memorize these lines from Omar Khayyam and say them to yourself when you feel bitter and resentful:

"The Moving Finger writes; and, having writ,

Moves on: nor all your Piety nor Wit

Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line,

Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it."

This means, of course, that what's done is done and there isn't one blamed thing you can do about it.

Those who refuse to accept that which they cannot change end up changing themselves. They become sour, disagreeable, unpleasant, humorless, surly — and sometimes ill.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am being married for the second time in a few months. My bride-to-be wants an elaborate church wedding and her parents can well afford it. This is her first marriage and she says it's going to be a dream come true.

The problem is that my first wedding was also a dream come true — a spectacular gala with all the trimmings. We received elegant wedding gifts from friends and family. Both sides.

I would like to invite many of the same people to this second wedding but I don't feel that they should buy a second gift. Should I drop them a note saying "no gift please"? — Second Time Around

Dear Second Time: Gifts should not be mentioned, under any circumstances. Those who wish to send a gift will do so, regardless. And they may wish to do so since the bride is brand new even if the groom isn't.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Safety Makes Sense to Eager Spring Gardener

It's spring and home gardeners across the country are once more enjoying the fresh air, sunshine and good exercise this activity affords.

Gardening is good for both body and mind, doctors tell us. But, they warn, it's easy to get carried away and overdo.

Here are some suggestions to keep gardening safe and rewarding:

Work at a pace that isn't too tiring, especially for the first few sessions. Take frequent rests.

Check up on your tetanus immunization. You may need a booster shot. Tetanus germs lurk in the soil.

Prevent Infection

Pay attention to cuts and scratches, even if they seem minor because surface infections may curtail your gardening activity.

Also, since soil is dirty, if you garden barehanded you will welcome the ability of an antibacterial skin cleanser to clean up your hands no matter how engrained with loam they may get.

Keep in mind that power mowers are hazardous. If you leave the machine or have to refuel it, be sure to turn off the engine. Never try to adjust or clean the blades while the motor is idling. And don't use electric-powered machines in wet grass. Above all, read with care the safety instructions that come with all power tools.

Handle With Care

Remember that pesticides must be handled carefully. Useful as they are in controlling plant-devouring insects, they can also be harmful to humans. Store them carefully, away from children's reach. Read the directions and warnings on the package.

Watch out for poison ivy, sumac and oak. If you're not sure how to spot them, get an illustrated handbook. Dig these plants out, roots and all, but avoid touching them. Afterwards, if you must burn them, keep out of the smoke, which will hold vaporized particles of the poison. In case you do find yourself with a rash, see your doctor for soothing medications.

So put on your work clothes and get outdoors. Make the most of what gardening has to offer, but observe these precautions for fun without regrets.

Imaginative Dash

Know how to flute a cucumber? Use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler to remove the thin skin. Now drag the sharp prongs of a fork down the length of the cucumber to give a scored effect; slice thin.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Gravy Train

It's not the potato, but the gravy, that's fattening. A medium-sized potato weighs in at a low 100 calories.

In fact improved reducing menus include at least three plain-cooked potatoes a week. But the idea of anything plain-cooked is seldom attractive to a reducer. If she relished simply prepared foods, it stands to reason she wouldn't gain so much weight.

Happily the potato, like most foods, can be prepared in ways that satisfy a demanding gourmet, yet without exceeding a reducer's calorie limits. For instance:

Potato Italiano. Bake and scoop out a medium potato. Whip meal with 1 tablespoon Italian low-calorie dressing; return to shell and brown under broiler.

New Potatoes Parsley. Boil 12 tiny new potatoes in skin and drain well. Place 1 tablespoon salt and ¼ cup chopped parsley in heavy brown paper bag; add potatoes and shake well. (3 potatoes to portion.)

Riced Potato. Put hot boiled potatoes through ricer (1 potato per person.) Serve with bowl of fat-skimmed meat essense, very hot.

Herbed Potato Salad. Toss diced potatoes, while still warm, with dieter's herbdressing. (1 potato per person.)

Just so—when it's not all gravy, a potato is so much gravy for a hungry dieter.

VFW Auxiliary Past Presidents Arrange Picnic

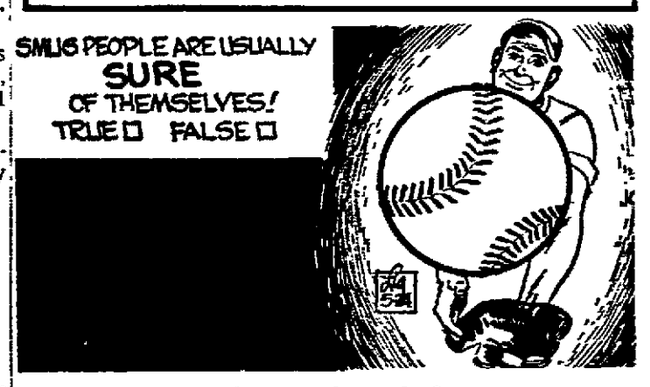
The Past Presidents' Club of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2778 Auxiliary have planned a potluck picnic 6:30 p.m. June 30 at Linwood Park. Arrangements were made at a recent dinner meeting at Reetz's Supper Club.

Mrs. Fred Peske will serve as president of the club for the next year. Mrs. Edward Kies is the new secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. John Steenis was inducted into the club at the meeting.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.



False. They may be smug because they have never been exposed to any other point of view. On the other hand, their smugness may be an attempt to cope with their own doubts. Smugness may be a way of pulling down the curtains of our minds upon something we are afraid to look at. Intolerance may arise out of our own self doubts. The "insufferable bigot" needs to be not so much exposed and condemned but strengthened and supported so that it becomes psychologically comfortable for him to tolerate conflicting views.

Yes— No—

Yes, Clark Blackburn, general director of the Family Service Association of America, says, "Our marriage and family counselors report that young husbands and wives constitute an increasingly high proportion of their marital problem cases. And there is no question that a tragically high percentage of the young married couples who remain married are disillusioned and dissatisfied with their marriage to the point where it has become a bore, a mockery, a burden, or a disaster."

Ordinary Finesse Not Always Best

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Everybody knows how to take a finesse when dummy has a suit headed by the ace-queen. You just lead that suit from your own hand and play the queen from dummy. Simple — but not always correct.

West hit upon the lucky opening lead of the ten of hearts, and East took the king and ace. East then led the jack of hearts, forcing South to ruff with a high trump.

South drew two rounds of trumps and then led a club, trying to finesse with dummy's queen. East won with the king of clubs and returned a club to dummy's ace. South eventually had to give up a second club trick and was therefore down one.

South can easily make the contract if he knows that East has K-x of clubs, but he has no way of knowing this in actual play. If would be foolish to make a fancy play that works if East has the king of clubs but fails whenn West has the king.

Delay

One play allows South to make the contract whenever West has the king of clubs and also whenever East has the singleton or doubleton king. South must take a delayed finesse in clubs.

After drawing two rounds of trumps, South takes the ace of clubs and the three diamonds. Then he leads a club from his hand.

When West plays low, declarer puts up dummy's queen. If West has the king, dummy's queen will win a trick just as though South had taken an ordinary finesse. If East held the singleton king of clubs it would have fallen on the earlier club trick.

As the cards lie, East wins the second club trick with his king. Since East has no more black cards any return from his hand allows dummy to ruff while South discards his last club.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold. S 7 2. H A K J 7 4 2, D 8 4 2. C K 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. You have 11 points in high cards and 2 points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid. You accept the option of bidding since you have a fine 6-card major suit.

SEAMS TO ME By Patricia Scott

Big Time For Lace

Pat Scott

In the last few weeks I've been "pushing" lace. This is because it's so big at the moment and now's THE time to get going on it whether for your home or your back.

Today I'm suggesting a charming and strictly feminine lace overblouse. You can find this in any pattern book since it is sleeveless, has a jewel neckline, is cut straight and just hits the hipbone or maybe slightly above. Unfortunately, I must give "close" yardages for the lace because this really depends on the size you wear. The yardages are just about right for a size 10, so try to judge from there or start the project and if you see that you are running short you can then figure out just how much more is required.

YOU'LL NEED:

45-inch wide crepe for the blouse itself. Yardage is indicated on the pattern envelope. I used 1½ yards for the one I made.

16 yards of lace ruffling, one-inch wide (or more if necessary)

2 yards of seam binding

TO MAKE:

1. A heavy white crepe is perfect for the shell. From your pattern, cut the blouse front, make bust darts, and press.

2. Do not stitch sideseams until the lace has been applied.

3. Starting about 20 inches below the top corner of the shoulder seam line, stitch a row of lace straight across the front, with decorative edge toward the hemline.

4. Continue to add rows of lace above and below this about ⅞ inch apart, with each row overlapping slightly.

5. For best results, mark the position of each row with light pencil lines or basting. A fine needle and fine thread are suggested when sewing the lace.

6. Since most of the narrow ruffled lace edgings have a finished edge, you won't have to turn under before stitching. If you have a machine, use the zig-zag stitch for a firm flat finish.

7. Taking care to keep the ends of the lace flat, stitch side seams, catching the lace ends inside the seam. Finish nicely by sewing seam binding over the lace ends inside. Catch the lace ends in the facing seam at the armhole and the neckline.

8 Finish the shell according to the pattern directions.

Little Chute Board Okays Plan for Combination Teams

Athletes of New Public School To Participate at St. John High

LITTLE CHUTE — The board of education Monday night approved a plan allowing students attending the new public school to open for the 1966-67 school year, to participate in the athletic program at St. John High School.

Earlier approval was given by the Fox Valley Catholic Conference and the Wisconsin Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association. The board indicated initial enrollment would not make it feasible for the public school to field competitive teams against other schools. Joining with the Catholic school would save financially while the new school was being established.

Some felt an intramural program might provide more athletic opportunity for a greater number of students, but the importance of competition against other schools played an important role in the overall athletic program and helped create interest in the school. Board members agreed, the combination teams would be tried on a one-year basis.

Avitus Ripp, formerly of St. John High School, would serve as head football, basketball and track coach. William Fitzpatrick, who resigned from St. John to assume physical education, driver education and coaching duties at the public school has yet to be fit into the combined athletic program.

Leo Bronkalla, superintendent of schools, informed the board, objection has been received from the Outagamie County Highway Commission about four entrances and exits onto County Trunk N from the site of the new school.

Clarence Brownson, county highway commissioner, voiced objection to an entrance to the school which angled off County Trunk N and to three other roadways. He indicated two roadways to the school would be more feasible and create less of a traffic problem. The board made plans to meet with members of the village street committee and the county to determine what could be done to solve the problem as major changes at this time could prove expensive.

Bronkalla outlined a summer reading program which will permit students to develop reading at their own learning rate and indicated, the program would be evaulated at the end of the summer to determine whether similar programs should be instituted during the regular school year.

Richard Landreman was hired to audit the school books for the year and the superintendent was authorized to purchase visual aid equipment and other materials with money made available from the federal government to implement special classes to be offered during summer school.

New Stray Dog Technique Works

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—Patrolman Maynard Merrill decided to try a new tactic when he answered a complaint in North Willoughby about a stray dog.

He was unable to find out where the dog belonged, so he drove his patrol car slowly toward the dog, barking loudly over the car's loudspeaker system.

It worked, said Merrill. The dog turned tail and headed for home.

Milwaukeean Admits 4 Valley Burglaries

Police Take Man Off Bus in Oshkosh After 5 Break-Ins

A 39-year-old Milwaukee man, taken off a bus by Oshkosh police about 9 a.m. today, has admitted four early morning burglaries and an attempted burglary in Appleton.

Appleton police said shortly before noon that they would seek a warrant this afternoon.

The burglaries occurred at Snodgrass Standard Service, 303 E. College Avenue, where attempts to enter a cash register and a filing cabinet failed, but a wrench was taken; the 400 Bar, 414 N. Appleton St., where about $60 was missing; Mel's Parking Lot, at Lawrence and Oneida Streets, where a transistor radio was taken, but money and several guns were undisturbed, and Elsner's Mobile Service, 130 S. Oneida St., where about $10 was reported missing this morning.

The Milwaukee man said he attempted to enter Retson's Bar, in the 100 block of S. Appleton Street, but did not succeed.

Vending machines were pried open and about $10 taken in the Zion School kitchen, 116 E. Winnebago St., during the night, but the Milwaukee man told Appleton police he had no part in that burglary.

Windows were broken to gain entry at each of the six Appleton buildings.

An Appleton patrolman who questioned the Milwaukee man on the street about 1:30 a.m. today, obtained his name and address. It was this information that led to the man's arrest in Oshkosh hours after the burglaries. Police said the man has a record of similar crimes in Appleton.

The patrolman who did the questioning heard glass break at Retson's Bar while he was walking his beat about 1:30 a.m.

Tenant See Man Flee

At 3:30 a.m., another patrolman was summoned to the 400 Bar when a tenant living upstairs reported that a front window was broken by a man he saw fleeing the scene. He furnished a description which fit that of the Milwaukee man who was questioned earlier.

A patrolman found a front window broken at the College Avenue service station at 3:50 a.m., while the burglaries at Mel's Parking Lot and Elsner's Service Station were discovered within the next half hour.

The school burglary was reported to police about 6:50 a.m. today.

The New Emergency department at St. Elizabeth Hospital, which opened its doors Monday, is inspected by Miss Joan Martin, head nurse of the department, and Charles Paul, assistant administrator. The area, located in the east wing of the center, is just one of the facilities which will be open this year. Emergency service is available 24 hours a day. (Post-Crescent Photo)

School Board Adds Centers, Pool to Highlands Building

Architects Estimate Facility Will Cost Nearly $1,300,000

After a lengthy debate, members of the Appleton Board of Education Monday night advised Schutte, Phillips and Mochon, Milwaukee architects, to proceed with plans for the new Highlands Elementary School including an orthopedic swimming pool and two instructional centers.

Clint Mochon and John Fieweger, representatives of the firm, presented three sets of sketches for board approval as well as general cost estimates for each plan. Mochon and Fieweger emphasized that the prices they quoted were "ball park" estimates based on estimated cost per square foot rather than actual building and material costs.

Preliminary estimates for the plans favored by the board were in the neighborhood of $1,300,000. The architects were seeking direction from the school board as to whether they could proceed with planning an orthopedic pool and instructional center on the first floor. The board's vote Tuesday gave them a basis for planning.

More Sketches

Sketches will now be made in greater detail and cost estimates re-examined.

The instructional center on the first floor, subject of board debate, would cost approximately $40,000. The center, a large wall-less room, would incorporate library facilities and audio-visual aids. It could serve as a "laboratory" accommodating as many as two classroom-sized groups of students at the same time.

Omitted from the plans was the multi-purpose room found in most of Appleton's public schools. Members of the board felt that the instructional center and a large stage and music area would adequately supplement the school's physical education program thus eliminating the need for a multi-purpose room.

The plans presented also provide seven unfinished classrooms for use at a later date. The preliminary sketches show the building to be generally square in shape, with two floors above ground and a basement under less than one-half of the total area. The remainder of the space beneath the building would remain unexcavated.

Mochon said the school plans were "extremely simple in concept" and would "make for a maximum of economy." One board member remarked that it was difficult to compare costs for the proposed Highlands school with other new schools in the area because of the large orthopedic wing, the pool, and seven unfinished classrooms. The pool would be used only for orthopedic purposes.

Plans in greater detail will be presented to William Spears, superintendent of schools, and the school board before they meet with the Appleton council June 15.

Board members present at Monday's meeting voted 4 to 2 in favor of the plans.

Youth Gets Jail Term for Stealing Car

R. J. Paeth, 17, Appleton, to Serve 30-Day Sentence

A 17-year-old Appleton youth who, along with his girl friend was injured when the stolen car in which they were riding crashed during a police chase Friday night, was sentenced Monday afternoon to 30 days in jail.

Russell J. Paeth, 1530 E. Glendale Ave., appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on charges of taking and driving a car without the owner's consent, and operating a motor vehicle after his driver's license had been revoked. He had been waived from juvenile court jurisdiction.

He pleaded no contest to both counts. He was found guilty of taking a car owned by Ronald Peterson, 318 N. Sidney St., Kimberly, after he was bound over to the felony branch of County Court. He waived preliminary examination.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the felony case to June 21, but imposed the jail sentence after finding Paeth guilty of the driving after revocation count.

Paeth stole Peterson's car in Kimberly late Friday night. Pursued by police, the youth drove west on Maes Avenue, missed a curve, hit an embankment and landed in a plowed field. His 15-year-old girl friend was taken to the hospital by ambulance after Paeth fled the scene on foot. He was later found by Kimberly police on County Trunk Z and was taken to a hospital.

Nothing Missing in School Break-In at Little Chute Sunday

LITTLE CHUTE — Village police are investigating a break-in at St. John High School, believed to have taken place sometime Sunday night.

Police could find no sign of forced entry and nothing was missing although a trampoline was moved from the gym into one of the classrooms, some desks were moved and handles were taken from fixtures in the washroom.

Family Founded Crescent

Dudley Ryan, Former City Resident, Dies in Florida

One of the last remaining links between Appleton and the Ryan family, which founded and for many years operated the Appleton Crescent, a predecessor publication to The Post-Crescent, was broken at Daytona Beach, Fla., Saturday, with the death of Dudley Ryan.

Ryan, 96, was the son of James Ryan, a co-founder of the Crescent, and grandson of Col. Samuel Ryan, pioneer land agent and a veteran of the War of 1812. Present at Mr. Ryan's bedside at the time of his death was his only child, Mrs. John G. Gibson, of Toronto, Ontario.

Memorial services for Mr. Ryan were held Monday in Florida. A second memorial service and interment will follow at Toronto.

Born in Appleton

Born May 14, 1870, in Appleton, Ryan was a veteran of the Spanish-American War. He served in Puerto Rico with Company G, second Wisconsin infantry. A Presbyterian and a member of the Masons, he moved in 1908 to Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, where he established a branch of the Berlin Machine Works, a Beloit-based manufacturer of woodworking machines.

During his residence in Canada, Ryan became a Canadian citizen. His wife, the former Miss Jessie MacGregor, of Appleton, preceded him in death in 1938. The late Mrs. Ryan was an aunt of Mrs. George Banta Jr., Menasha, and William M. Wright, Neenah.

The Ryan family's roots lie deep in the history of America, and recall this nation's struggle against Great Britain early in the 19th century. His grandfather, later known as Col. Samuel Ryan, was brought to America as a member of the crew of the British naval ship, Shannon. He had been pressed into service against his will on the street of an Irish city.

Escape from British

Sent to the Great Lakes by the Admiralty, the elder Ryan was aboard the Shannon when it met the U.S.S. Chesapeake during the War of 1812. It was during this crucial engagement that Captain Lawrence made his immortal command, "Don't give up the ship!"

Samuel Ryan and a friend subsequently ran away from British service at Erie, Pa. Although they were fired upon, the fleeing sailors did not allow the guards' bullets to interfere with their determination to escape.

Ryan then joined the U. S. Army and was sent to Fort

Dismissal of Woman on Grounds of Pregnancy Violation of State Law

NEENAH — If an employer terminates a woman's employment solely on the grounds of pregnancy he is violating Wisconsin's Fair Employment Practices Law, says Miss Virginia Huebner, Milwaukee, director of the Equal Opportunities Division of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission.

Miss Huebner discussed dismissal because of pregnancy as one "probable cause" of employment discrimination when she spoke to members of the Twin Cities and Appleton Personnel associations at a dinner meeting Monday night at the Valley Inn.

"Wisconsin's fair employment law runs the gamut," Miss Huebner told the group of about 60 persons, "and now precludes dismissal on the basis of race, creed, national origin, ancestry, age, sex or handicap." It is one of the "most advanced" laws in the country, she said.

Investigates Complaints

Discussing the function of her division, Miss Huebner explained that administration, not legislation, is its main objective. "To find probable cause of discrimination is our initial job." The division investigates each complant, sets public hearings if "probable cause" is established and then recommends action to implement the law.

"Not in all the situations do we find substance for complaint," she said. "And we are not just a complaint organization. We advise and counsel with employers and unions to bring cooperation with the law."

Miss Huebner illustrated her discussion with case histories and decisions made by the division. She included a Kenosha County case where racial discrimination had been practiced and a Milwaukee case where sex discrimination had been alleged and proven.

Overtime Rules

Association members queried Miss Huebner on refusal to allow women employes overtime under the Women's Hours Law and-or compelling them to work overtime under blanket waiver of the law.

Miss Huebner explained that individual overtime waivers must be sought jointly by employe and employer and that failure to do so upon employe request would be judged discriminatory. A blanket waiver is never issued, she continued.

"The purpose of our division is to encourage and foster the employment of all properly qualified people," Miss Huebner concluded. "And our commission has a good batting average. In administration of our fair employment act we have not had one decision overruled."

Asked to Reevaluate

Mayor Thinking About Veto of Council Action

Another veto may be in the making, Mayor George Buckley said Monday afternoon, but he wasn't sure.

"I'm thinking about it," he told Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, at city hall.

Buckley was referring to recent council action — over his objection — of authorizing the city welfare director to attend monthly workshop sessions.

Pointer asked the mayor to "reevaluate" his overall position on conventions, conference and workshop sessions.

The official council proceedings are now in the mayor's possession. He has until Wednesday to consider a veto. He has issued two vetoes since taking office April 19.

The figure equals the number of vetoes cast by his predecessors — Clarence Mitchell and Robert Roemer — over the previous 22 years.

Mitchell cast one veto in 10 years, and Roemer one in 12 years.

Firm, State Agency Prepare Outagamie Airport Plans

Consultants, Aeronautics Unit to Help County Get Maximum Aid From FAA for Runway Projects

Officials of the Milwaukee State Aeronautics Commission and the Ralph H. Burke Co., Park Ridge, Ill., are at work preparing plans for expansion and development of the Outagamie County Airport, west of Appleton, and expect to have a proposal ready by the end of the week.

Both the Burke firm, which is the county's airport engineering and design consultant, and the state agency are developing a plan which would allow Outagamie County to receive the maximum in help and additional aid funds from the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Although official notification of the $458,000 grant from the FAA has not been received, it was learned today that the construction portion of the grant (which is $354,000) is for a 5,200 by 100 foot runway. The estimated total cost of a 5,200 by 100 foot runway is about $708,000.

Not Crosswind Runway

However, in the ultimate development plan, according to Supv. Al C. Fischer, county airport committee chairman, the present 5,200 by 150 foot runway is not considered the main runway. The new runway, which has been labeled a "crosswind runway" actually will become the main runway, and the present runway ultimately will become known as the crosswind runway.

"As a result," he said, "to develop the new facility to its ultimate main runway size, the county definitely will have to spend additional money."

In the airport "master plan," which was prepared a few years ago by Burke, the main runway is 7,000 feet long and 150 feet wide. However, in view of today's inflationary costs, county officials have been talking in terms of making the new runway only 6,400 by 150 feet.

Since about $354,000 of the $458,000 grant has been earmarked by the FAA for runway construction, the county would have to equal that amount to build the basic 5,200 by 100 foot runway. To expand the 5,200 feet to a width of 150 feet would add approximately $135,000 in costs. If the runway were to be made 6,400 feet long, it would mean adding an additional 1,200 by 150-foot section. This would add approximately another $200,000 to the cost.

Total Cost

Altogether, then, the cost of constructing a new 6,400 by 150 runway would be around $1,043,000.

Deducted from the $1,043,000 would be the $354,000 earmarked by the FAA for construction, the $104,000 which the FAA awarded the county as part of the grant for reimbursement of land purchases, plus $30,000 in aid from the state aeronautics agency. The FAA and state money total $488,000. This would leave a balance to be paid by the county of about $550,000.

The FAA grant, which was announced Friday by Eighth District Rep. John W. Byrnes of Green Bay, probably will be followed in the future by additional funds. Additional FAA money, a spokesman for

Hold Appleton Man In Jail for Theft Of $1 at Paper Firm

Daryl L. Nutting Jr., 21, 112 E. Hoover St., who Monday afternoon pleaded guilty of the theft of $1 from a fellow employe, was sent to jail without bond until his case comes up for disposition Wednesday morning.

Nutting was arrested by Appleton police who said the man stole a billfold from a locker at a local paper firm where he worked. Nutting told the court he is no longer employed.

Police said they began investigating the incident Sunday when Mrs. Nutting told them she found the wallet in trash she was about to put into an incinerator.

Board to Hire Coordinator For School Aid

A request by William Spears, Appleton superintendent of schools, to employ, on a temporary basis, a full-time staff member to handle all federal aid projects which may be available to the public school system, was approved by the school board Monday night.

Aid programs now are handled by educators of the school system. Spears said the volume of necessary work justifies hiring an additional staff member.

Dr. Roy Whitney, president of the school board, thought the plan desireable because "the administration is spending too much time on this."

Spears said the hiring of a professional on a "temporary basis" means as long as the need exists. He said the federal aid program may change considerably in the future, "cutting red tape" to a point where aid programs can be put back in the hands of the educators.

AAL Gives $3,000 to Church Unit

Aid Association for Lutherans has granted $3,000 to the Lutheran Society for Worship, Music and the Arts (LSWMA) to produce an exhibit on Lutheran church arts and crafts.

The exhibit will consist of about 40 panels containing photographs and descriptions to illustrate the artistic creations being used to enhance parish worship and educational life. Included will be a variety of items such as chalices, stone carvings, sculpture, mosaics, furniture design and vestments. The portable display will be made available to various Lutheran parishes and institutions on a short-term loan basis to encourage those in building and furnishings programs to utilize creative artists and consider wider use of new ideas, materials and forms.

LSWMA is an organization of musicians, artists, architects, writers, drama players, professors, pastors and interested laymen. Its headquarters are in St. Paul, Minn. Membership comes principally from members of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, The American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America.

Bergstrom Will Outline Plans On Pollution

Past Projects Have Exceeded $330,000 Costs

NEENAH — Bergstrom Paper Co., which recently announced plans to go ahead with a $500,000 water pollution abatement program, has informed its employes in a monthly bulletin that the company intends to take definite stands on the pollution problem and announce its intended solutions.

The bulletin proposed to explain to Bergstrom employes what has been done to help curb pollution in the past and what future programs will provide.

Included in past programs were construction of a $237,000 sludge disposal plant in 1952 and recent installation of a $101,400 system which aerates and returns water into a canal, the bulletin said.

Announcement of the new $500,000 program, made public May 14, included a statement that the company intended to "substantially" reduce the pollution load in Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Assemblyman David O. Martin, Neenah, has taken a strong hand in pushing for solutions to the water pollution problems on the Fox River and Little Lake Butte des Morts. Martin has met with State Board of Health officials concerning the problem and has announced that he will keep in touch with Bergstrom concerning developments of anti-pollution programs.

Pentagon Upset With Lax Attitude Of NATO Members

Reduction Sought in U. S. Troops, Greater European Responsibility

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sentiment appears to be growing in the Pentagon for a get-tough attitude toward North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations that shirk their common defense responsibilities.

Some key authorities have indicated they would like to see U.S. forces thinned down in Europe.

A source said failure of West Germany to meet a two-year commitment to buy about $1.3 billion in arms and military supplies from the United States could bring moves toward an American troop reduction there.

So far — with only a little more than a year to go in the commitment period — Germany is more than $1 billion short in its promised purchases, officials said.

Viet Nam Need

The rising irritation in the Defense Department is stimulated by:

—Growing manpower requirements for the Viet Nam war at a time when the United States has the equivalent of six Army divisions and a total of nearly 225,000 fighting men massed along the iron curtain in Germany.

—Continued reluctance by NATO countries, including Germany, to maintain their defense budgets and contribute to their abilities in the defense of Europe.

It is understood that West German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe Von Hassel received little sympathy from Secretary of Defense Robert S McNamara during recent conferences here in which Von Hassel told of Germany's difficulties in meeting its agreement to buy war goods from the United States.

U. S. Costs

This agreement, and others that preceded it, are designed to offset U.S costs in maintaining a major combat force in Germany.

In a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Montreal last week, McNamara once again underscored his views that prosperous allies must do more.

"We have had, over the last few years, as many men in uniform as all the nations of Western Europe combined — even though they have a population half again greater than our own," McNamara said.

"Now, the American people are not going to shirk their obligations in any part of the world, but they clearly cannot be expected to bear a disproportionate share of the common burden indefinitely."

Economic Growth

The U.S. officials are particularly incensed by graphs showing economic growth and defense spending in the NATO countries.

What bothers them is a leveling off in defense spending in some of these countries at a time when their gross national products are rising

The Institute of Strategic Studies estimates West German defense spending this year will total $4.37 billion — well below the 1965 estimate of $5 billion.

Germany has 12 divisions in its army but U.S. military leaders complain that Germany has not provided the backup forces, the support structure and logistic requirements that would make this 12 division force a first-class army.

McNamara is reported to have told the Germans that he will not stand by and see the U.S. 7th army in Germany in a position where its flanks are held by inadequate German and NATO forces.

Johnson Promises Unions Continued Taft-Hartley Fight

Labor Publishers Meet to Hear President Forecast Greater Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told the nation's labor union editors the administration will continue its attempts to get congressional repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"We will have to try again and try again we will," he told 150 editors of union labor publications at the White House Monday. The section permits states to outlaw union shop contracts.

The President also told the editors the United States must continue to help all Americans, especially "those who have the least."

"We are no longer content in America with achieving only the greatest good for the greatest number," he said. "What we have done in the past in the service of our conscience is only a prologue to what should now be done in the service of our vision."

New Business

Johnson said it now is time to go on to new business, such as extending education beyond childhood, giving the worker a job that uses all his abilities, using human resources to full potential and correcting seasonal unemployment.

Johnson met with the editors after a meeting with Democratic Senate and House leaders. He was accompanied by several House members, including Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who said the United States should remain in Viet Nam.

"I think it is as destructive a notion as possible that we may quit," McCormack said. He said the U.S. presence in Viet Nam has given people elsewhere a strengthened will to combat communism.

McCormack also told the editors one of the most important bills slated for House action this week is a measure to raise the federal minimum wage and to extend its coverage.

3 Saved After Yacht Sinks

Liberian Vessel Rescues Trio on 5th Day in Gulf

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Three men who clung to a homemade wooden ice box for four and one-half days after their 65-foot yacht sank in the Gulf of Mexico reached shore Monday night aboard the Liberian motor vessel, Cape Marina.

Raymond Murphy, 46, owner of the yacht Sea Lark, and crewmen Bill Rogers, 36, and William Linn, 60, were rescued Monday afternoon after the first mate of the Cape Marina spotted Murphy waving his shirt from atop the bobbing 4-by-6 foot box.

The Cape Marina was the third ship sighted, and after the first two didn't stop the trio had all but give up hope, Murphy said.

Drifted in Circles

"We kept drifting in circles," he said. "We wouldn't be here today except for that fishbox."

The Sea Lark, bound from New Orleans to Marathon, Fla., developed a leak early Thursday morning 61 miles off Dry Tortugas, a pinpoint of land 70 miles west of Key West.

Murphy said the 30-year-old yacht sank in less than half an hour apparently because several planks caved in as the yacht moved through a moderate swell at 10 knots.

"We just had time to dump the ice out of the fishbox and throw it overboard," Murphy said.

To bolster the bouyancy of the box — which was lined with plastic insulating foam — they lashed two 55-gallon drums alongside.

Kennedy Calls For Supervision Of Problem Drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy called today for coordinated government supervision of the use of the drug LSD which he said "has become a social problem."

In a prepared statement opening public hearings by a Government Operations subcommittee he heads, Kennedy said he hopes to find a pattern for coordination, cooperation and communication between government agencies in the LSD inquiry.

The New York Democrat noted that LSD, which sometimes gives unsupervised users hallucinations, has been available for more than 20 years.

"Suddenly, almost overnight," he said, "irresponsible and unsupervised use of LSD for nonscientific, nonmedical purposes has risen markedly. Such use carries with it grave dangers.

"And as LSD has become a problem, the possibility has arisen that public reaction will discourage and dry up legitimate research into and therapeutic use of LSD."

Benefits in Private Offices

Assembly Alters Welfare Proposal For Dentistry to Match Medicare

MADISON (AP)—The Democratic-controlled Assembly has liberalized the dental care section of a bill making Wisconsin's public welfare laws conform with federal Medicare standards and sent the package back to the GOP-dominated Senate.

The action Monday added $700,000 to the state cost of the dental program by allowing benefits for care received in private offices as well as in hospitals and nursing homes. The change also would bring in an additional $1 million in federal aids.

Assembly Minority Leader Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, said in opposing the change that the extension would cut into the state's projected surplus cash.

The amendment was one of three changes approved by the Assembly before it passed the entire bill 92-3. The Senate, which approved the original measure last week, must concur in the changes before the bill is sent to the governor.

Conference Committee

If it refuses to agree with any of the Assembly amendments, a conference committee is likely to be appointed to iron out the differences.

The comprehensive bill was recommended by a task force set up to find ways for Wisconsin to take better advantage of increased federal funding under terms of the Medicare proposal. most of its provisions were not challenged in legislative debate.

The Medicare package is designed to net the state and local governmental units $13.3 million in savings While the total spent for state and local programs would be boosted by $10 million, the increased spending would be more than offset by higher federal contributions toward state costs

The second change adopted would provide for home health care for the elderly in private profit-making nursing homes regulated by the State Board of Health. The bill initially provided the care only for persons in homes operated by a public agency or by a private nonprofit group.

Religious Provision

The third amendment would specifically allow reimbursements of medical costs involving practitioners of certain religious faiths, such as Christian Scientists.

Earlier Monday the Assembly killed 50-34 a bill that would have fixed the minimum age for drinking beer in Wisconsin at a uniform 21 years old

The present state minimum is 18, but the law gives counties and communities the option of raising it to 21 The jigsaw result has created "beer islands" where youths stream to areas where the minimum is lower than at home.

The Assembly laid over a bill that would have required identification cards for persons under 21 buying beer. Under the bill, the register of deeds in a youth's home county would issue the cards.

Educational TV

Assembly action on a proposal to establish educational television stations in the Eau Claire and Green Bay areas also was postponed.

Two amendments, one restricting the hours of programming and the other prohibiting "partisan or political" broadcasts, were slipped by the Assembly leadership on voice votes. When Majority Leader Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford, discovered the contents, he asked the bill be tabled.

Democrats said they would prepare further amendments that would strike the additions.

The Senate rejected an Assembly bill that would have created a state division of cartography, or mapmaking The measure carried a biennial appropriation of $70,000 and was discarded after Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah, cautioned his colleagues against digging into a projected state surplus.

Measures approved by the Senate included a bill that would make residents with only 90 days of military service eligible for all Wisconsin veteran benefits.

Scientist Accuses President of Trying To Mislead Public

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Nobel Prize - winning scientist Linus Pauling charged Monday night that President Johnson had used cicanery to block debate on Viet Nam.

Pauling told a University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee audience that the National Liberation Front of the Viet Cong is the only viable government in South Viet Nam. He accused President Johnson of misleading the country by offering to negotiate while rejecting every suggestion of talks involving the Viet Cong

Pauling's talk was part of a university-sponsored series. He will lecture on science tonight

Six Arrested in Protest Sit-In at Chicago School

CHICAGO (AP) — Police arrested six persons who refused to leave the administrative offices of Roosevelt University in protest Monday night against draft policies.

Two were faculty members and four were students.

The six volunteered to stay behind when a janitor told them and about 50 other demonstrators that they would be arrested if they did not leave the building by 10:30 p.m. when the doors are normally locked.

Thirty persons were arrested last week in two separate sit-ins at the university

Those charged with criminal trespass included Charles Kamen, 26, and Gerald McWhorter, 23, both sociology lecturers at Roosevelt.

Perfect Secretary More Necessary Than Perfect Wife

LONDON (AP) — "Most businessmen need a perfect secretary more than a perfect wife," said the 35-year-old Countess of Dartmouth.

Addressing a group of secretarial students her ladyship went on: "But don't fall in love with the boss. Falling in love with the boss is the cardinal sin in the office.

"A girl must be a friend to her boss, his public relations officer, his colleague and nurse if necessary — but she should never love him.

"Nothing is more irritating or boring to the boss's friends and colleagues than an adoring and possessive secretary

"We once had a doctor whose secretary was so in love with him that she hated the patients taking up his time.

"She married the man in the end — but he lost most of his practice."

The countess was followed by Robert Maxwell, 43, a publisher and member of the House of Commons, who told the secretaries laughingly: "I'm all in favor of male secretaries They stay longer."

Tokyo Merchant Advertises Views on Peace for Viet Nam

BY BOB USHIMA

TOKYO (AP) — "I'm a little short of cash, but it is my duty to print what I believe." said a Tokyo merchant who paid $11,184 to spread his views on Viet Nam and world peace across two pages of the New York Times.

Morihiro Matsuda's advertisement appeared in the Times Monday morning. He is negotiating for a three-page advertisement in the Times of London, which he said would cost him $15,555.

Matsuda, 45, operates an apartment house and a mail-order business which sells bodybuilding equipment. His wife runs a dressmaking shop. They have two sons, one 2 years old, the other 9 months.

Matsuda denied he was seeking personal glory. "If people say I am, then let them," he said, "but it's not true."

Matsuda said he put his advertisement in the New York Times after Japanese newspapers refused it.

In it, Matsuda called on the U.S. government to set up 50 "paradises" in South Viet Nam for victims of the Vietnamese war. He said these rehabilitation centers would cost $10 billion.

"I believe the United States can afford it if the Viet Nam war stops and America cuts down on its defense spending," said Matsuda.

He said the advertisement he has submitted to the London Times appeals for "British influence on the United States to stop the war."

Describing himself as "uneducated and nameless," Matsuda said he has no political affiliation and is interested in fishing. He said he goes fishing "every day" and thought of his plan for peace in South Viet Nam "four or five years ago while fishing."

He proposed dividing South Viet Nam into two parts, the northern part ruled by a Viet Cong government and the southern part by the present South Vietnamese government.

"I don't know who is right in the Viet Nam war," said Matsuda. "I don't know whether the Communist is okay or not, but I just want to publish what I think. I think everyone is obligated to reveal one's thoughts."

CESA Dissolves Bear Creek School

BEAR CREEK — A resolution to dissolve the Bear Creek School District and attach it to the Clintonville School District on May 23, 1967 was passed unanimously by the Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 8 School District Reorganization Committee Monday at Bear Creek.

The decision was made after a lengthy public hearing at the high school and in spite of the fact that the majority of the more than 350 people present seemed to favor retaining the school.

People favoring the attachment to Clintonville felt that their best spokesman was a study made by the State Department of Public Instruction. It showed that reorganization would benefit the children in the Bear Creek District.

76 Sign Petition

A petition for reorganization, signed by 76 residents of the district, was given to the committee.

The main spokesman for those opposing the resolution was state Sen. Gerald Lorge who asked the committee not to make a decision immediately. He requested a further study of the statistics to increase the district prepared by Ralph E. Jolliffe, school reorganization administrator.

Lorge referred to a counter-proposal to transfer territory from the Clintonville and New London School Districts to the Bear Creek District. This recently was advocated by a newly-organized Bear Creek Area Citizens Educational Committee.

"We feel that this is one of the wealthiest farm districts in the state and we want to be given an opportunity to show whether we have a good school district," he said. "I'm sure a study would show that if Bear Creek would be given proper evaluation, the taxes could be reduced and the school enlarged."

Decrease Taxes

Many of the other people who spoke in opposition to the proposal also indicated that enlarging the district would decrease the taxes and increase the curriculum.

"This school district has done the best it could with what it had," one voter said, "But the district is far too small; if we could acquire territory, we could better meet the expectations of the state."

Kenneth Poppy, CESA 8 coordinator, pointed out that no detailed study had been made of the counter-proposal and that only one official study of the problem had been presented by the state Department of Public Instruction.

Independent Study

He pointed out, however, that an enlargement study, showing the pros and cons accurately and in detail, could be made by an independent study group from one of the universities.

The people then were asked if they would support this kind of a study even if it was not in their favor, and except for one voter, they indicated they would.

However, because of the delay involved and the cost of such a study as well as the problem of who would pay for it, the committee decided against such action.

Rumors Not True

Lorge also pointed out that a number of rumors had been going around about the school which were not wholly true.

"There has been talk that only 10 per cent of our graduates go on to college, as compared to the state's average statistics of 50 per cent," he said. "But according to a study which shows the number of students attending college the first year after graduation, 29 per cent of the Bear Creek students go on to college."

This is not a wealthy community and many of the children have to work a year before going on, he added. "If the study had been made showing those attending college two years after high school, I'm sure Bear Creek would rate much higher," Lorge said.

Enough Courses

Another major issue in the decision is the curriculum offered by the school. Lorge said. "It has been rumored that we don't offer enough courses but a study indicates that there are enough courses the student can take during his four years to prepare him for whatever he plans to do after high school."

In analyzing the statistics, the committee found that the major shortcomings in the curriculum were the lack of language courses, tribonometry and analytical geometry. Technically, shop courses don't exist but are taught in agriculture classes. Science courses are offered in alternate years.

Some of the people opposing the resolution felt that because would have to travel, to Clintonville schools, they could not participate in the extra curricular actitivies.

Work Out Later

Harland Kirchner, speaking for the Clintonville school board, said that this would have to be worked out by the two boards after the committee had reached a decision.

Though the meeting was orderly and subdued throughout the three hours, feelings ran higher during the rebuttal session when Lorge pointed out that the Bear Creek District "may be used as a partridge with the feathers pulled out and divided.

"The very least we are entitled to," he said, "after the long time we have been in existence, is a fair decision.

"Let's not decide this issue by making deals in barns and backyards," he said, and referring to the talk that after Bear Creek is attached to Clintonville, it will be divided again and part of it given to New London, he added

No Backyard Deals

In rebuttal, Poppy said that there had been no backyard deals, only discussions with people who were interested in a better education for their children.

During and after the meeting many of the people indicated that they were tired of the drawn-out reorganization fights and that they would be willing to support the committee's decision if it would settle the dispute once and for all.

"Almost 20 years ago my father told me I might be going to Clintonville," one of the voters said, "and today we are still talking about it."

His remark was greeted by a round of applause.

Mock Voting Machines were used by Einstein Junior High pupils to elect the new student council officers. The purpose of the machines, supplied by Eldon Broehm, city clerk, was to show pupils how to vote and the importance of voting. The students from the American government classes acted as officials. Casting their votes are, from left, Gary Shebilske, Dave Wilz and Natalie Buesing. Elected president was Thomas Hanstedt and vice president, Skip Blank. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Court Dismisses Petty Theft Count Involving Old Car

OSHKOSH — A petty theft charge against Raymond J. Neetzel, 29, route 1, Neenah, was dismissed by County Judge James Sitter after a trial before him May 13 on the grounds there was insufficient evidence to establish a prima facie case.

Neetzel was arraigned on Feb. 23 on a charge of theft of a 1932 Plymouth from a farm owned by Lloyd Acheson on County Trunk BB in the Town of Menasha.

The charge later was reduced to petty theft of value under $100. Neetzel pleaded innocent and trial was held before the court.

During the trial it developed that Neetzel had been in the process of buying the farm and there was a misunderstanding regarding personal property on the farm. The car involved was stored at the farm but was owned by a John W. Seefeldt. The car is still at the sheriff's garage.

Building Purchase To be Challenged

MENASHA — Authorization was given Supt. M. J. Gegan Monday night to finalize a land contract for purchase of the Robert Zielinski property at 716 Racine St. for administrative offices. Meanwhile, Chairman Roland Kampo, at a town board meeting, indicated he would challenge the purchase by the Menasha Joint School District.

Kampo said that he wasn't informed of the meeting on May 17 when the common council approved purchase of the dwelling for $21,500. Approval to purchase the property was given last week in a 9-2 vote with Alds. Andrew De Leeuw and Richard Heindl opposing the plan.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zielsdorf, Pine River, took third in open dog class and reserve winners bitch with their Siberian Huskies. Mrs. Evelyn Wahoske, Ripon, took reserve winners bitch with her Samoyed.

Winning best of breed in Sealyham Terriers was Mrs. Letah Cohen, Green Bay. The Orville Clarks, Ripon, won best of variety in smooth Dachshunds with their male and another point toward his championship. Their puppy bitch was reserve winners.

Junior showmanship honors went to the Clarkes as their daughter, Jane, won first in the graduate novice division.

Lawrence Hoyt, Rosendale, was second in the puppy bitch class, showing a smooth Dachshund.

Mrs. Richard Piette, Appleton, won a first place in the Novice A class in obedience with 196 points. Mrs. Robert Piette, Appleton, finished her Miniature Schnauzer to her CDX degree from the Open B class.

Mrs. James Bernd, Neenah, finished her standard poodle to the companion dog degree and was third in the Novice B class with a score of 193. Miss Jane Sundin, Appleton, had a qualifying score in Novice A, which meant her second leg toward the C.D. Degree.

Jerry Buhrow, Ripon, also had a qualifying score in Novice B and earned her first leg toward his CD.

KAUKAUNA — Firemen answered a call to County Trunk OO about 1:15 a.m. Monday where a grass fire had been started by a switch engine. There was no damage.

Town Drops Annex Rider For School

MENASHA — After considerable discussion Monday evening, the Menasha Town Board decided not to attach an annexation rider to an agreement to provide services to the proposed elementary school on A irport road. Instead they will bargain in other areas.

The town's sanitary district will provide sewer service only if it also can provide the revenue-earning water services, town officials decided.

But opposition to that proposal is expected from townsmen. Chairman Roland Kampo and Clerk Robert Jacobs both reported citizens in the Town of Menasha have indicated they would circulate a petition calling for a referendum over the services to the school, the newest proposed addition to the Menasha Joint School District.

Menasha Mayor Kenneth Holmes asked for the sewer service in a letter to the town board and the sanitary district last week. The town's sewage plant is located just across Airport Road from the proposed school. Holmes said the city would pick up the cost of the lateral pipe and would handle repairs.

Klein Takes Job Selling Insurance

MENASHA — Former mayor John Klein, who lost a job by 12 votes in April, has begun a career in insurance.

He began work Monday for the McClone Agency, Inc. and is currently undergoing training locally before attending insurance classes in Milwaukee next week.

School Fees Approved By Board of Education

Fees, resignations, new contracts, bids, and textbooks were discussed at Monday's meeting of the Appleton Board of Education.

Orlyn Zieman, acting principal at Appleton Senior High School West, presented a report on fees for enrollment and activities at the high school. The proposal consolidated the collection of fees in various departments of the school into one $4 basic fee payable to the homeroom teacher at the opening of the school year.

The matriculation fee will include towel rental, WIAA benefits, postage for mailing report cards, cost of a student identification card, locker rental, and a student handbook. The board accepted the proposed fee.

Student Activity Plan

The board requested that Zieman review a second plan for installment payments for the student activities plan. The plan provides a package of extracurricular programs at a cost below the actual value determined by separate participation. Zieman's proposal said students desiring membership in the plan before Oct. 1 would pay a $10 fee. Those who could not pay before Oct. 1 could make a $4 "down payment" and $1.50 per month for five months, bringing the total to $11.50 for the year.

The student matriculation fee is mandatory for all students. The proposed student activities plan is voluntary.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Janette Pirner effective at the end of the school year. Mrs. Pirner has been teaching at Foster Elementary School on a temporary basis since Thanksgiving.

New Contracts

New contracts for the 1966-67 school year were approved by the board for R. Price Dahlstrom, marketing and business education at Appleton High School; Mrs. Maxine S. Johnson, home economics, and John A. Jooss, English and social studies at Wilson Junior High School; Miss Nancy Torinus and Mrs. Roberta Hoppe, elementary teachers; and Doris Denessen, speech therapy.

A low bid of $3,382.50 by Fine Papers Co., Neenah, for 5,500 reams of duplicator paper was accepted. A bid of $1,495 for 250 cases of paper towels was accepted from Valley School Suppliers, Appleton. Fine Papers Co. bids totaling $1,079 for newsprint and drawing paper also were accepted.

Request for a leave of absence by Alan J. Hoffman to accept graduate assistantship at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh was approved. Hoffman is an upper-intermediate teacher at Lincoln School.

In other business, board members heard a statement of philosophy of education presented by Alan Stoner; and the recommendation of three textbooks to be used by the speech department at Appleton Senior High School West by Lee Schoeni.

Driver Courtesy Gives V. F. Graper Driving Award

Valentine F. Graper, 53, 320 E. Murray St., is an "Appleton Safe Driver."

Graper

Graper, an employe of Appleton Machine Co., today became the fourth motorist to receive a safe driver recognition award in connection with Appleton Automobile Safety Days, a 10-day vehicle and driver safety campaign which ends Saturday.

Five more safe drivers will be cited before the campaign ends.

Graper received the award after an Appleton patrolman observed him yield to a motorist during a peak traffic period on S. Oneida Street in "the Flats."

The patrolman gave this account: "There was a vehicle trying to get out of the old North Western depot on the west side of Oneida Street. He had waited from three to five minutes. As Mr. Graper came south on Oneida, he slowed, came to a complete stop and waved the motorist into the line of traffic."

Graper, father of three sons, has been driving more than 35 years. He has lived in Appleton about 26 years.

Firm, State Working on Airport Plans

Burke said, will be for further reimbursement of land purchases as the airport is developed into standards specified by the federal and state agencies.

The $104,000 portion of the $458,000 grnt covers 333 acres of airport property. Altogether, the county purchased 1,300 acres of land for airport property.

Fischer said today that the county "definitely knows" that the new runway will be 150-feet wide. "But," he added, "we're not sure what the exact length will be." He said the ultimate development plans call for 7,000 feet, "but we may have to settle for only 6,400 feet."

Glenn Intermill, an engineer on the Ralph H. Burke staff, prepared cost estimates for The Post-Crescent today on the basis of Fischer's statement of what the new runway length might be.

Intermill conferred in Madison Monday with Thomas K. Jordan, director of the state aeronautics agency, and Joseph Abernathy, one of the state's airport engineers, on development of the county airport. Plans which Burke and the state are now working on may be presented to the county board's airport and executive committees late this week or early next week.

Abernathy said that, although official notification of the FAA appropriation has not been received, the grant is expected to be made available to the state (which acts as agent for the county) by June 30, which is the end of the federal fiscal year.

Three Youths Fined $100 on Disorderly Charge After Break-In KAUKAUNA — Three 19-year-old youths pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Monday, and were fined $100 each.

The three were involved in the break-in at Outagamie County Teachers College May 18 when money and checks were taken from the school office. The three were also ordered to help pay for damage to the school building.

Those fined were Mark Feltheim, 1724 E. Frances St., Appleton; Joseph Janzen, 467 E. Bank St., Fond du Lac, and James Kempf, 1601 Florence St., Kaukauna. All are students at the college.

A fourth youth was fined a similar amount in court last week for the same offense.

Menasha Park Board Elects Geibel Head

H. F. Geibel Jr. New Chairman; Mrs. Telin Secretary

MENASHA — Veteran park and recreation board members were elected chairman and vice chairman and a newcomer to the board was chosen secretary during a special meeting held Monday evening in the Memorial Building.

The chairmanship went to Hugh F. Geibel, Jr., while the vice chairmanship was handed to Peter Burghardt. Mrs. Charles Telin, whose appointment was confirmed at the last common council meeting, was chosen secretary.

Mayor Kenneth Holmes presided over the special meeting.

The election reorganizes the board after it lost three of its seven members through resignations in April. A fourth member has stated she will be unavailable for reappointment when her term ends July 1.

The previous chairman, Linus Pfankuch, resigned along with Edward A. Waskiewicz and Salvatore (Sam) Porto. All were veteran members.

New members besides Mrs. Telin include Ted R. Neely and Robert F. Noeller.

Several topics were reportedly discussed at the meeting, but no formal action was taken.

The board did, however, vote to change its regular meeting day to the second, rather than the first Monday of the month. The next meeting was set for June 13, tentatively to be held at the Jefferson Park swimming pool.

Bircher Accusations Disturbs County Unit

Mental Health Group Concerned Over Telephoned Message Attacking Program

Concern that the Outagamie County program may be adversely affected by a telephone transmitted attack on the national mental health movement was expressed here today.

The 90-second "Let Freedom Ring" telephone message being transmitted throughout the Fox Cities is sponsored by J. W. Steinhardt, 28, a member of the John Birch Society, who resides on County BB.

"The bad thing is that it came in the middle of our annual countywide drive for funds," commented the Rev. Carl Wilke, president of the Outagamie County Mental Health Association, Inc.

Directors Meet

He said the association's board of directors met Monday night after hearing the tape-recorded message.

Referring to the "Let Freedom Ring" message, Father Wilke described it as, "A studied attempt to damage the county fund drive."

May is National Mental Health Month and the time local groups conduct annual fund campaigns to help underwrite the cost of yearlong mental health program activities.

Mental health groups are very active in Outagamie County and the Fox Cities in general.

Infers Subversion

The Outagamie County chapter is affiliated with the state organization and the National Mental Health Association, which the recorded message infers is conducting a subversive program.

"The message makes no charges against the local group and lacks specifics," Father Wilke said.

"There was some reaction from the board that poor terminology was used in the broadcast," Rev. Wilke said.

"The board does not intend to by-pass the issue," he added "We will continue to watch this."

Father Wilke said the national association does not dictate the local mental health program, but rather sets informational guidelines and renders advice and counsel.

The board Monday voted $2,000 for the family service program being instituted in Appleton by the King's Daughters.

Louis Schultz Feted for Work With Boy Scouts

KAUKAUNA — A court of honor for Boy Scout Troop 27 Monday night turned into a testimonial for Louis Schultz, scoutmaster for the troop from October 1951 to December 1965 when he announced his retirement.

During his tenure as leader, Schultz saw 35 boys reach the rank of Eagle Scout and 24 of them were on hand to extend congratulations and best wishes Monday. He was also presented a plaque for his services.

The Rev. J. L. Bestler, assistant pastor of St. Mary's parish, was guest speaker and paid special tribute to Schultz for the many hours he devoted to boys of the city. Norbert Jansen served as master of ceremonies and Howard Veldman and members of the advancement committee were in charge of presenting awards and merit badges.

Lee Wittman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wittman, was presented the Eagle Scout award by Wallace Mooney, east district committeeman.

Deer Doesn't Like City Life; Streaks Back To Home in the Forest

City life apparently held little appeal for a deer that was seen tearing down W. Lorain Street, near N. Douglas Steet at breakneck speed about 11:30 a.m. today.

The large animal was observed by several residents along W. Lorain Street as it streaked toward the good old forest and fields at the west end of the street.

Those who observed the deer said it appeared to stay on Lorain Street until it disappeared into the woods. Police said they received no reports of the sighting.

Ryan, Son of Crescent Founder, Dies in South

Howard, now Green Bay, with an Army detachment. When Fort Howard was abandoned in 1828, he remained in the community doing clerical work. In 1834, when a U. S. land office was opened at Green Bay, he was named land agent.

Moves to Menasha

When the U. S. land office was moved to Menasha, Col. Ryan came with it. He became a familiar figure in the city, and frequently delivered the city's Fourth of July address. At these times he wore his officer's coat as a colonel in the militia.

Ryan's Menasha home was located on Broad Street, two lots east of the intersection with Racine Street.

While in Green Bay, Ryan had played an important part in the founding of the Green Bay Intelligencer, Wisconsin's earliest newspaper. Later he helped to finance the starting of the Appleton Crescent, originally a weekly, by his four sons, John C., James, Sam Jr., its first editor, and Henry D. Ryan.

A later Sam Ryan, son of James and brother of the late Dudley Ryan, started the Daily Evening Crescent in October, 1890, after taking over editorship of the weekly. The publication was sold by the Ryan interests to the Meyer Press in 1918.

Not Ryans At All

A final, little-known aspect of the Ryan saga was recalled by a long-time family friend Monday. When Col. Ryan was on his deathbed in the 1880s, it was recounted, he called the family together and made a surprising confession.

The family name, he told them, was not Ryan originally but Gee. Of Irish nationality, the Colonel had adopted the name Ryan in order to conceal his identity following his flight from British naval service.

But it is as Ryans, and not as Gees, that this pioneer family is remembered throughout the Fox River Valley today.

2 New London Youths Found Innocent on Hunting Charges

A six-member Outagamie County Court jury Monday afternoon found two New London youths innocent of game charges brought by a Wisconsin Conservation Department warden.

The youths are Stephen J. Dorsey, 16, 722 W. Jennings St., and David G. Monseur, 17, 1906 Pershing Road.

They were arrested March 27 in the Town of Hortonia by Warden Albert Vander Bloemen who charged them with hunting pheasant out of season. Both youths pleaded innocent on April 15.

The jury, impaneled in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, deliberated only about a half hour in reaching the verdict. About a half day of testimony was heard.

The left front and left rear tires of the car were slashed while the vehicle was parked on Main Street. The policeman on duty was nearby and reportedly saw two youths speed away in their car.

Area police agencies have been furnished a description of the youths' vehicle.

Start Collecting Odd Leaves With Unusual Markings

BY CAPPY DICK

A collection of miniature leaves is fun to make. Gather the most delicate, finely-colored specimens you can find. They should be small so you can attach a lot of them to a piece of construction paper as in the adjoining picture. The collection may be placed under glass in a picture frame, if you wish.

The leaves will show up best if neatly pasted or glued to white or gray construction paper. Before mounting them, press them between sheets of waxed paper under a weight so they will be flat.

Mount leaves on paper

If you examine the early leaves of vines, bushes and trees, you will find that some bear unusual markings. The No 8 leaf in the collection is an example. It is a three - leaf clover that has light green markings near the center. The Figure 9 leaf is of the sorrell, which has dark red markings on green

Oak leaves provide an interesting variety. Figure 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 show various types. Some small, young maple leaves (No. 13) have a red tint and the new leaves of tame grape vine (No. 11) are bright pink when they first unroll.

Figure 1 shows a leaf of the sweet gum tree, which drops its gum balls in the spring so you can make necklaces from them. Figure 10 is a young leaf of dogwood; dogwood leaves leaves come out in pairs. The leaf in Figure 12 is of the wild cherry tree. When young this leaf has a tint of red.

Throw Away Your Denture Adhesive

New Dental Discovery Ends Need for Pastes and Powders

New York, N. Y. (Special)—After years of research, scientists have discovered an entirely new substance to make false teeth hold beautifully. Denture wearers report that this new substance holds loose dentures so securely and comfortably in place, they no longer need pastes and powders.

This new dental discovery is a soft, pliable plastic that is applied directly to dentures from the tube. User then inserts dentures into mouth and bites down. Instantly, this new substance molds to the contours of mouth and gums, holding dentures firmly in place through soothing suction — so powerful that even those with difficult lowers can laugh, talk and eat anything. Looseness, slipping, and clicking disappear. Sore spots are quickly relieved. Unlike other methods, several applications a day are unnecessary. One application lasts 20 to 30 times longer than pastes or powders...yet stays soft and pliable in use. Nightly cleansing does not wash it away, and it is easily removed when desired. It will not harm plates.

This new substance is now available at drugstores under the name Cushion Grip®, with a full money-back guarantee. Get Cushion Grip today and end the need for paste and powder adhesives forever!

TV Emmy Award No Surprise to Bob Cosby

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Cosby, the first Negro to star in a television series, has won an Emmy award for his performance—another first. But he says that what he'd really like to do is teach school and own "a farm full of horses and kids."

Cosby, a 28-year-old comedian turned actor for the weekly series, "I Spy," received a standing ovation as he accepted his Emmy, an award he said came as no surprise.

"I was the sentimental favorite—I'm a Negro," he said in an interview after the awards ceremony.

Praises Costar

But the award bothered Cosby too, because it didn't also go to his costar in the series, Robert Culp.

"To tell you the truth," Cosby said, "when I started out, I didn't know what it was all about until Bob sat down and taught me. He was the first one to write a script with me doing any acting.

"When I got up to get that award, I couldn't help but look back and grab my man, say what I really felt about Bob. You can't finish off a relay race in first place and not look back to the guy who handed you the baton."

Cosby's beginnings were in Philadelphia, and it is there he wants to return some day to teach school in a lower-class neighborhood and ride horses in the country with his wife, Camille, and "a farm full of kids."

He thinks maybe he can do some good by righting mistakes that were made with him, "Like not laying it on the line with a kid—the whole truth, man—what it's all about."

Educated Late

"I didn't get the nitty gritty until I was 22 with no high school diploma, out of the service, and too ashamed to go back home and live off my mother.

"So I took a test and got my diploma and went to Temple University. But I left there too. People told me I was funny. They laughed at me, so I became a comedian."

"A Bill Cosby today is an important thing, but I don't want any kids to think they can goof it all up then catch up when they're 22," he said.

"I want to go back and tell them myself that it's not the right way to do it."

Cosby was interrupted by a telephone call from actor Sidney Poitier who was calling his congratulations, and Cosby joked with him like a man who enjoys the business he's in.

"There are other things I'd like to de besides television," he said, "but I'd be foolish to say I'm only here for quick money so I can get out.

"I intend to be a wealthy young man some day soon, but I'm not rushing. Right now I like me just like I am—an all-around winner."

Communities To Get Aid For Projects

Wolf River Group Will Help With Water, Sewer Plans

The commissioners of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission Monday accepted the Farmers Home Administration's designation of the commission as the agent for FHA water and sewer programs for small communities in the Wolf River region.

Under the program, the commission will aid communities with a population of 5,500 or less to plan and implement water and sewer projects.

There will be three types of grants, according to William Morris, the commission's executive director. The first will be planning advances which will be used to set up a program for a feasibility study. The second type will be regular planning grants to determine what should or should not be done. The final type of grant will be for development. These would provide funds for planning the construction and development of water and sewer facilities.

Morris told the commissioners he learned that Forest and Menominee counties are eligible, under the countywide program, for 100 per cent grants for planning of their sewer and water needs, and other counties can receive from 50 to 90 per cent participation, depending on their economic status.

Development grants may total up to 50 per cent, Morris explained. He added that Menominee and Forest counties may get an added 30 per cent from the Economic Development Administration on these approved projects.

Morris said he had been requested by the Wisconsin office of the FHA to submit to its office by June 10 at least one application for a planning program for sewer and water in a community or county.

Resolutions creating an official planning committee in each member county and requesting the Wolf commission to aid in undertaking water and sewer programs will be submitted to each of the eight county boards.

Stocks Still Swing Upward

Trading Active As Air Shares Make Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made another strong recovery swing today with trading moderately active early this afternoon.

Stocks were up from the start. Airlines recovered vigorously from their selloff of late Monday.

Auto stocks and other key issues put on one of their best performances in weeks.

General Motors lead with 2 points. Ford and Chrysler well over a point each.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 8.85 at 891.31. A half-hour earlier it was up 10.52.

Analysts saw the advance as a continuation of the technical rebound from an oversold condition which brought the list to its 1966 lows last week. The ability to recover so quickly from a selling squall also was an encouraging element, analysts said.

AP Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 3.3 at 325.1 with industrials up 6.3, rails up 1.4 and utilities up .4.

The airlines were able to weather news Monday that the Civil Aeronautics Board expected them to reduce air fares next year. This came under the heading of old news, analysts said.

Burroughs rose 1¾ to 65 on a 10,000-share block.

Prices rose on a broad front in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U S Treasury bonds declined.

Investors' Corner

Why are so many people like you now investing in stocks?

Right now, you may be asking yourself whether you should invest in stocks. Before the year is out, an estimated 1 million people (many in financial positions that may be similar to yours) will have taken the step, joining the more than 20 million who now invest. Their basic aim is to make money, but many have a more specific goal in mind.

For example, a man no doubt wants his children to have a college education someday. As a hedge against possible inflation he buys common stocks hoping that his investment will grow in value over the years and help him pay tuition expenses. Many stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange have proved capable of such growth in the past.

Or, imagine a man who wishes to supplement his salary. He might turn his attention to stocks that have regularly paid dividends.

A middle-aged widow might have a very different investment goal. In addition to buying common stocks, she may decide to put some of her funds in high-grade preferred stocks and bonds because they frequently offer a good yield with relative safety.

Could an investment in stocks provide the money to help you reach a particular goal? It might—providing you go about it the right way. Keep these points in mind: 1. Don't invest money needed for living expenses or emergencies. After all, there is risk in any investment. 2. Choose an investment goal suited to your needs. 3. Learn what you can about the performance of companies that interest you so you can better judge their prospects. 4. Get advice—use the services of a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Roseboro, Koufax Star as Dodgers Edge Pirates, 3-2

Centerfielder Tony Gonzales, of the Philadelphia Phillies, was tagged out by catcher John Bateman, of the Houston Astros, as he tried to steal home in the third inning Monday night. Torre's Double, Homer Lead Braves Past Redlegs, 6-4; A's Win, 5-3, in 12 Innings

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

John Roseboro, whose job last winter was to prevent trouble, has caused some for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Roseboro helped Sandy Koufax win his seventh game Monday night by scoring the winning run in Los Angeles' 3-2 victory over the Pirates.

The Dodger catcher, who had gone hitless in his previous 13 times at bat, lashed a two-out double in the ninth inning and came all the way home as pinch-hitter Derrell Griffith beat out an infield single.

Roseboro remained near his home in the Los Angeles suburb of Compton last winter, working in riot-torn Watts as a community relations specialist for the Los Angeles police department.

Something Useful

"I wanted this particular job because it meant I could do something useful for my people," the 32-year-old veteran explained. I was sickened by what I saw during the riots I could have had an off-season job like public relations for a large corporation, but that's sterile.

"A lot of Negroes thought I would whitewash the police department, but wherever I found criticism of the police out in the community, I carried it back to police officials."

As part of his job, Roseboro also promoted police careers for young Negroes.

"I had no compunction about telling Negro kids to think about a career in the police department. After all, it stands to reason that a Negro officer can relate to the problems of the Negro community better than a white officer can."

Underhand Toss

Roseboro took the Dodgers' problem in hand Monday night As Griffith topped a roller to the right of the plate, Roseboro headed for third. Pitcher Pete Mikkelsen fielded the ball and tossed it underhand to first base

Griffith, however, beat the throw, for his first hit of the season, and Roseboro kept going. He crossed the plate without a play being made on him.

'Don't Get Pallbearers Out'

Averages of Skidding White Sox Look Like Weight List to Stanky

CHICAGO (AP) — The skidding Chicago White Sox' batting averages look like a weight chart, but Manager Eddie Stanky said oMnday "Don't get the pallbearers out."

Al Weis .156, Ron Hansen .176, Pete Ward .178, Danny Cater, 191, Bill Skowron 213, Don Buford .220—those are some of the reasons the White Sox have lost 14 of their last 19 games and thudded into the American League's sixth place.

For a team that was billed as a solid pennant contender, they can't seem to get off the ground

"When anything good happens, it's the players—anything bad, it's the manager's fault," said Stanky "It's been that way for years I don't know how to make my batters hit The players win them, and the managers lose them.

"I've been asked if I'm going to make some changes. The answer to that is that if I do, I'll have to get some Little Leaguers "

"Some wise guys keep writing about the melancholy month of May," Stanky continued. "I'll never sing the blues. I'll be the same manager the day after tomorrow that I was the first day of spring training.

"I'm not laughing, either We've got too many men hitting under 200. That's the obvious reason why we're losing.

"Don't go getting the pallbearers out We're far from dead — from the manager on down Anybody saying we're singing the blues is hogwash."

'Weirdest Play I've Seen,' Says Alston

Dodgers Win on Bad Bounce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers are accustomed to winning games in the last inning. They've done it three times in the last week. But they outdid themselves Monday night when they shaded Pittsburgh 3-2 on what Manager Walter Alston called the weirdest play he's ever seen.

John Roseboro was aboard with a two-out double in the ninth inning when pinch-hitter Derrell Griffith topped a slow roller that was three feet foul when it reached the halfway point between home plate and first base.

"It was so far foul that I slowed down and almos stopped," Griffith said afterward. Fortunately, he kept going. The ball suddenly took a crazy hop and skidded lazily into fair territory.

Pitcher Pete Mikkelsen, catcher Jerry May and first baseman Donn Clendenon converged on the ball and Mikkelsen fielded it an instant too late to make a tag on Griffith. Then Mikkelsen's underhanded throw to second baseman Bill Mazeroski at first base was not in time.

When Roseboro rounded third, he was startled to discover there was no one covering the plate, so he sped home with the winning run without drawing a throw. May had forgotten to return and protect the plate.

"I've been in baseball over 30 years," said Alston, "but I never saw anything like that. I still don't see how Griffith's ball could have rolled fair after being that far foul."

"This reminds me of last year," said Dodger first baseman Wes Parker. "We find the darndest ways of winning."

Result of Bad Bounce

The first Los Angeles run also resulted from a bad bounce, enabling John Kennedy to get a single on a roller to Clendenon.

Kennedy took third on a double by Maury Wills and scored on Parker's sacrifice fly.

Ron Fairly accounted for the second Dodger run off Don Cardwell when he hit a sixth-inning homer to give Sandy Koufax, now 7-1, a 2-0 lead.

Five of the seven Pirate hits off Koufax came in the last two innings and one was a game-tying, two-run double by Gene Alley in the eighth. But Koufax hung on and gained his fourth complete-game victory in a row.

He struck out seven, lowered his earned run average to 1.85 and went the distance for the seventh time in 10 starts this season.

'They'd Boycott Him'

Joe Louis Says Clay Must Fight Outside This Country

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cassius Clay must fight outside the United States or not at all, former heavyweight champion Joe Louis said Monday.

He said Clay, the current champion, had no box office appeal in his own country.

"They'd boycott him," Louis said. "The theaters wouldn't show his fights, and I don't think the public would pay money to see him perform. Not now anyway. He'll have to stay in Europe if he wants to fight."

Louis said the American public was disillusioned by Clay's bouts with the Selective Service System.

Louis, in Milwaukee to attend an amateur boxing show, said he hadn't watched Clay's victory Saturday over Henry Cooper. The bout was televised.

"I knew what would happen," he said. "That Cooper cuts so easy."

Greg Hitting .400

Warren Spahn's Son Showing Considerable Ability as Shortstop

HARTSHORNE, Okla. (AP) —Like father, like son is a slogan that's not taken lightly at the home of baseball's winningest left-handed pitcher, Warren Spahn.

"Baseball's my first love," says 17-year-old Greg Spahn, a right-hander-by-accident who is a star in his own right and wouldn't mind stepping into his father's shoes a a professional.

Greg, a 5-foot-9, 165-pounder who has hit .400 so far this year as a senior at Hartshorne High School, is described by his father as a youth with natural athletic ability.

"His baseball ability has impressed me," said the elder Spahn whose name for the first time since 1940 did not appear this year on a pro baseball team's roster. "He fields well, and his hitting has improved over last year."

Unlike Warren Spahn, young Greg's baseball interest is voluntary.

"My dad said he didn't want to press baseball on me," he explained. "His (Warren's) father made him play ball when he was a kid and Dad wanted me to make up my own mind."

Plays Shortstop

Greg, who plays shortstop, might have been a southpaw like dad except for a childhood accident. He had inherited his father's use of the left hand.

"I was burned on the left hand when I was about one year old," he said. "My left hand was in a cast so long that I just started using my right hand."

Greg also has played high school football and has done well. At one time he contemplated going out for college football, but an ankle injury the past season hobbled him and he played only a couple games for his school in this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,500.

"I think he's better off in baseball than football," said his 45-year-old father, who operates a sprawling cattle ranch near here when he's not in baseball.

Whether Greg — Warren's only child — ever makes the major leagues is something no one would predict.

"That would be up to a major league scout to say," said his coach, Winford Smith. "I know he is interested in playing baseball and that he is a good school athlete and one of the most outstanding leaders in school."

Carl O. Butler, the high school principal, agreed: "Greg is a really fine leader; yes, even an outstanding leader."

His scholastic average at Hartshorne High is A minus. He has indicated a desire to attend the University of Oklahoma at Norman and play college baseball.

Warren Spahn, after 20 seasons with the Boston, and then the Milwaukee Braves, spent 1965 with the New York Mets and the San Francisco Giants. He won 20 or more games a season for 13 years. His lifetime won-lost record is 363-245.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Behnke

Perhaps the most important yardstick in measuring a pitcher's greatness is not how many games he won, but how many shutouts he pitched . . . Did you know that only one pitcher in the entire history of major league baseball pitched more than 100 shutouts? . . . Do you know who holds this record? . . . It's Walter Johnson . . . He twirled 113 shutouts in his big league career.

Did you know that very few men over 6-feet tall ever become great golfers? . . . If you name all the best pro golfers of recent times, you'll find that almost all of them are 6-feet or less . . . Arnie Palmer, for instance, is 5-10½ . . . Gary Player 5-7 . . . Gene Littler is 5-9 . . . Jack Nicklaus is an even 6-feet . . . Billy Casper is 5-11 . . . Sammy Snead 5-11 . . . Ben Hogan is only 5-9 . . . It's rare indeed when you find a great golfer much over 6-feet.

A's Almost 50 Per Cent Ahead of '65 Gate Pace

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the Majors:

Sam McDowell suddenly has stopped winning. Cleveland's fireballing southpaw posted his last victory more than three weeks ago, May 1, when he pitched his second straight one-hitter and fourth triumph. He's started four times and relieved once since.

The Kansas City A's are almost 50 per cent ahead of last season in home attendance. They've drawn 126,081 for 13 home dates this year compared to 84,847 in the same number of dates in 1965, an increase of 41,234.

Orlando Cepeda is hitting .293 with four homers in 11 games since joining St. Louis in a trade for pitching Ray Sadecki two weeks ago. Sadecki hasn't finished any of the three games he's started for San Francisco. He has been charged with one loss while giving up nine runs in 9 1-3 innings.

Quick Quiz. Which is the only major league team which hasn't been shut out this season? It's the California Angels. They've been held to one run in seven of the 35 games they've played but haven't been blanked.

Boston's Tony Conigliaro, the defending American League home run champion, is considerably behind last year's pace. He has hit only four homers in 33 games this season compared to nine in as many games in 1965 when he finished with 32.

Robin Roberts of Houston shoots for his 285th career victory tonight in opposing Jack Fisher of the New York Mets at the Astrodome. Roberts, 3-3 this season, and Fisher, 1-4, were teammates with the Baltimore Orioles in 1962.

The Angels have been having mixed success with their young outfielders. Rich Reichardt, the $200,000 bonus player, is tied for the American League home run lead with 11 and is batting .312. Jack Warner, after a strong start, has gone hitless in his last 20 times at bat and his average has dwindled to .244.

Cleveland's pitching staff has held the opposition to three runs or less in 25 of the Indians' 31 games. The staff has had six shutouts, seven one-run games, seven two-run games and five in which it gave up three runs.

The Chicago White Sox have postponed a respectable 10-9 record on the road. But they'e only 5-8 at home, including their one victory in four games with Cleveland last weekend.

Pete Richert, Washington lefthander, has won four straight games, two against California and one each over Minnesota and Cleveland. During that streak, he's yielded only three earned runs in 28 2-3 innings for an 0.93 earned run average.

Louisville Woman Socks 877 Block

Takes Lead in Qualifying for Queens Tournament

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Marilynn Bruner, a 33-year- old 181 average bowler from Louisville, Ky., rolled a stunning 224-196-224-233—877 series Monday night to lead the first four-game block of qualifying for the Queens Bowling Tournament.

The tournament is affiliated with the Woman's International Bowling Congress Tournament

Miss Bruner took a 24-pin lead over Brenda Gille of Los Angeles, Calif., who had a 206-231-213-203—853 series. Miss Gille, 25, is a 203 average bowler.

Gloria Bouvia of Portland, Ore., who took the Division 1 singles lead of the WIBC Tournament Sunday on a 675 series, came back to take third in the Queens Tournament with a 238-238-220-181-192—831 series.

Rounding out the top five were Anita Cantaline of Detroit, Mich., with 829 and Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., with 825

Betty Kuczynski of Chicago, the defending Queens champion, and Donna Zimmerman of Los Angeles, who won the 1965 WIBC all-events title, were exempt from qualifying for the finals.

Dodgers Will Tour Japan After Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1965 world champion Los Angeles Dodgers can look forward to at least one series after the regular season this year in Japan.

The Dodgers announced Monday a post season barnstorming tour of the Far Eastern nation, which they last toured as the Brooklyn Dodgers, in 1956.

The agreement was reached between Toru Shoriki, president of the Yomiuri Giants, who won the Japanese baseball title last year, and Walter O'Malley, president and owner of the Dodgers.

The series of international exhibition games will be played after the World Series has been completed in both nations. Baseball Commissioner William Eckert designated the Dodgers to make the annual trip to Japan this year to represent American big leagues.

Maximum Action For Six Pitches In One Inning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top half of the first inning was only six pitches long for Washington's Mike McCormick Monday night, but the Kansas City Athletics packed a maximum of action into the six pitches—three hits good for two runs and three outs.

Mediator Sees End of AAU-NCAA Rift

By WILL GRIMSLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — What constitutes a college athlete?

This is one of the knotty problems facing the five-man board of arbitration named by Vice President Hubert Humphrey to resolve the five-year old power struggle between AAU and NCAA.

"We have fairly well decided where areas of authority lie," Theodore W. Kheel of New York, well-known labor mediator who heads the panel said today. "For instance, it is agreed that the AAU, because of its long-time tie-in with the national federations, has the sanctioning power in international events.

"Where we have run into a road-block is in the matter of sponsorship of open and closed meets. We are seeking a clear definition of what constitutes a closed meet and what makes up a college athlete.

Summer Student

"What about a boy in college ineligible for athletics? Does he still fall under college jurisdiction? Then there is the summer enrollee and the post-graduate.

"This is a problem that must be settled by both sides."

Kheel opened the second day of hearings here with top representatives of the Amateur Athletic Union, long the governing body of many amateur sports, including track and field, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which is seeking a stronger voice in the conduct of the nation's amateur sports.

Binding Report

The New York mediator said that he believed that a final peace was near and he predicted that, once an agreement is achieved, there will be no breaking it.

"When we draw up a report, it will be binding on both parties," Kheel said. Both the AAU and NCAA brass agreed that the current five-man board represented too strong a force to be defied.

Besides Kheel, members are Archibald Cox, Harvard Law school professor and former solicitor general; Gen. David M. Shoup, retired U.S. Marine Corps commandant; Ralph Metcalfe, Chicago alderman and former Olympic sprinter, and Thomas Vail, editor and publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Only Metcalfe is absent at the present hearings — the fifth since the panel was formed last January.

Hearings are held in a large board room at a midtown hotel, with ten men, including attorneys, on each side. The warring groups remain to themselves. There is little comraderie but, Kheel says, no acrimony.

Kheel indicated that the final solution would permit the AAU to retain its international and open meet sanctioning powers with the NCAA governing high school and college events.

"Athletics must have rules," Kheel said. "Someone must administer the rules. There must be one authority. There can't be dual administration."

Reds' 22-Game Winner Ellis Loser in 3 of Last 4 Defeats

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball luck has turned its back on Sammy Ellis.

The slender right-hander, who last year won 22 games while losing 10, dropped a 6-4 decision to the Atlanta Braves Monday night and is now 2-6 for the season.

He has been the losing pitcher in three of the Reds' last four defeats. The Braves drove him from the mound in the sixth inning when they scored four times and overcame a three-run Cincinnati lead.

Fischer Wins

"I sure thought we had that game won after Tommy Helms' three-run homer," Manager Don Heffner said sadly afterwards. "The wall caves in in a hurry in this business."

The victory was credited to Hank Fischer, who worked six innings and limited the Reds to four hits. Joe Torre drove in three runs with his 11th home run and a double and Mack Jones contributed three hits to the Atlanta attack.

"Believe it or not, but I'm not feeling very good at the plate just now," Torre said. "I'm very lucky to be hitting the ball at all."

He added that he hopes when he gets to feeling better he'll also be able to beat the mid-season hitting slump that has plagued him in the past.

"It's probably caused by my hitting a few home runs early in the season and then trying to hit a few more," he mused. "I also get a bit tired in the middle of the summer — I guess that's it."

Effinger Will Coach At Milwaukee West

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Paul Effinger has been named football coach at Milwaukee West High School.

Effinger, 31, named to the West job Monday, had coached for the past six years in Kenosha and Menominee.

The former St. Norbert's football and track star succeeds Otto Dunst, who will remain at West as a guidance counselor.

Keith Gehring Hits 820 in Summer Loop

Tom Hibbard cracked a 234 game, and Keith Gehring pounded an 820 series to divide honors in the 41 Bowl Summer Classic League Monday night.

Gehring had a pair of 203 games, followed with a 211 and then came back with another 203 count.

Other honor scores included Norm Schimmelpfenning, 226-773; Ron Emrich, 766; Don Brandenburg, 788; Hibbard 792; Bob Wogsland 797 and Lowell Clement, 784.

Indians' Wild Card

Salmon Shifted to Short By Cleveland's Tebbetts

DETROIT (AP) — Every time Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cleveland Indians shuffles the line-up deck, Chico Salmon comes out a wild card.

Chico's at shortstop now. He has already played first and second this season. Last year he tried everything but pitcher and catcher, and Tebbetts said he wasn't sure Chico couldn't catch a few innings in a pinch.

"I do not consider myself a shortstop," Salmon said. Tebbetts disagrees. "We worked him out at shortstop all spring and I'm satisfied with him," the Tribe skipper said Monday.

Salmon is at shortstop because Tebbetts has three walking wounded at that position — Larry Brown, Dick Howser and Tony Martinez.

Brown is recovering from a collision in Yankee Stadium with Leon Wagner, and Howser and Martinez were injured in sliding plays against the Chicago White Sox Sunday.

Salmon laughs about the shuffling line-up.

"Thought Hands Bad"

"They changed me to second base, then third base, then the outfield," then first base," he said. "I guess they thought my hands were real bad."

"But I don't think my hands are bad. Well, not pretty good, maybe, but not real bad, either. I don't care what they say, just what No. 1 (Tebbetts) says. I'll go anywhere, just so I can play."

What does Salmon consider his best position?

"Hitting," he said quickly. "That's my line — hitting. Man, I love that. They can put me in the batting cage from 7 in the morning until 9 at night and I'll stay there."

The Indians open a four-game series with the Tigers today, starting with a twi-night doubleheader, and Tigers' Manager Bob Swift doesn't feel the Indians are at a loss with Salmon at shortstop.

"I've seen enough of him, and our scouts have told me enough, so that I think that kid could play anywhere — even catch — and do a good job," Swift said.

"I don't believe we'll have any special advantage because Salmon is playing shortstop."

Village Turns Down Federal Aid Grant

FREEPORT, N.Y. (AP) — This Long Island village of some 40,000 has rejected a million-dollar federal grant. The grant, from the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity, was to finance an experimental "talking typewriter" program to teach reading, arithmetic and other subjects. Turned down by Freeport's School Board, it was taken by New York City.

Senior to Give Piano Recital At Harper Hall

Andrea Schwellinger Conservatory Student From Hales Corners

Pianist Andrea Schwellinger, a senior at the Conservatory of Music, Lawrence University, will present a public recital at 8 p.m. Thursday in Harper Hall of the Music-Drama Center.

Miss Schwellinger, Hales Corners, is a piano student of Theodore Rehl, assistant professor of music. She is a candidate for a bachelor's degree in music with a major in piano.

Her program will consist of: Three sonatas, by Domenico Scarlatti; the Sonata in G. Major, Op. 31, No. 1, by Beethoven; "Sposalizio" (Marriage), by Liszt; a suite of dances, "Saudades de Brazil" (Vol. 1), by Milhaud; and Barcarolle, Op. 60, by Chopin.

Miss Schwellinger transferred to Lawrence from Rosary College, River Forest, Ill., in her sophomore year.

She has since performed with the Lawrence Women's Chorus and Concert Choir and as a junior recitalist.

She is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, music sorority, and has served as corresponding secretary of her social sorority, Alpha Chi Omega. As a senior, she was a representative to the Lawrence Women's Association.

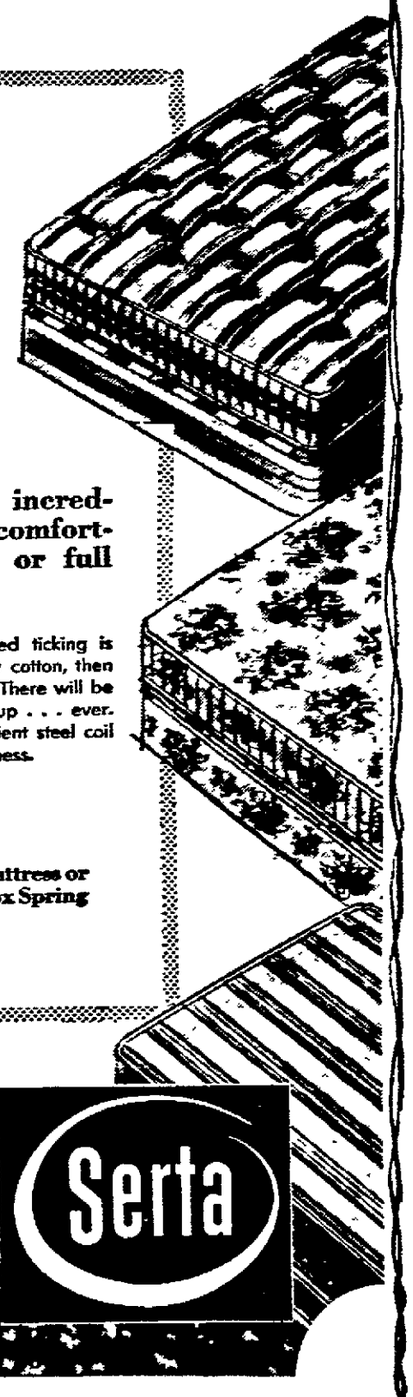
We find ourselves in a sticky situation

Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches are juvenile mainstays. With us, at Wichmanns, bedding is one of our mainstays. We pride ourselves on our huge selection of mattresses and box springs created by America's foremost manufacturers of bedding. We make it possible for you to choose from innerspring or foam; medium, firm or extra-firm construction; regular or extra-long lengths; full size, twin, queen or king-size; button tufted, smooth or quilted tops in an enormous selection of ticks. In other words, we have mattresses and box springs to please every taste and pocketbook. But, not unlike our sticky little friend here, our eyes are sometimes larger than our stomachs. Our buyers occasionally get carried away. We are in just such a sticky situation at the present . . . more mattresses and box springs than we have room to accommodate. This is a wonderful situation . . . for you, now you can replace that lumpy, worn-out mattress and box spring at terrific savings! So put aside that peanut butter and jelly sandwich and get into Wichmanns. Take advantage of our "sticky situation" and buy new bedding at reduced prices!

Be alert now and get a good sleep later . . . on a deluxe mattress and box spring. Your sleep will be all the better because of the pleasant feeling you'll have for saving so much!



Save $13.95 when you buy this button-tufted, heavy-duty mattress! Twin or full size.

Here is bedding to last a long, long time . . . delivering superb comfort and firm support always. Heavy cotton felt padding over firm coil springs, (tufted top to bottom) means comfort on top of staunch support. The stripe cover is heavy duty too. This is the kind of bedding hotels, motels, buy.

$36 Mattress or Box Spring

Save $7.95 and get cloud-like sleeping comfort on this quilt-top mattress! Twin or full size.

When you sleep relax all over . . . undisturbed by buttons, hollows or hard spots. You can when you sleep on this cloud-like quilt-top mattress. it's just one big, smooth, downy surface . . . top to toe. Firm innerspring construction with a beautiful, sturdy floral print cover.

$42 Mattress or Box Spring

Save $11.95 on this incredibly luxurious and comfortable mattress! Twin or full size.

The Damask, flower-strewn quilted ticking is triple lock-stitched through downy cotton, then through close-knit sisal insulation. There will be no material shifting or lumping up . . . ever. This quilting over extra-firm, resilient steel coil springs means permanent smoothness.

APPLETON AUTO SAFETY DAYS — May 18-28

a car is approaching in your lane...how will you react to this common driving emergency?

ANSWER:

Here's what to do. Slow down as quickly as possible, but do not jam on your brakes. Pull over to the right as far as possible, even taking to the shoulder of the road if necessary. Give the oncoming car all the room you can, flashing your lights and honking your horn to alert him to your presence. If a collision is imminent, steer to the right, avoiding a head-on at all costs. Your chances are much better off the pavement than meeting the oncoming car head-on.

This emergency driving situation is a common occurrence which has led to many serious accidents. Your ability to do the right thing when this situation occurs can mean the difference between life and death.

LAKE PROPERTY

AND NATURE LOVERS
How often have you yearned for a nice large lake lot in a PRIMEVAL forest to have for a weekend retreat, vacation, or year round use? Then, only to be told by the developer that they are restricted and can allow only modern permanent homes. We have heard this story too often. If you are really interested in a change of all this, PLEASE READ THIS TRUE STORY. We have found a large complex of land and water in the "North Country" of Wisconsin, consisting of a lake with over 25,000 ft. of undeveloped shoreline, and having over 1,200 acres of beautiful PRIVATE HIGHLAND FOREST surrounding the lakeshore. THIS IS NOT ALL, as the famous PINE RIVER with over 14,000 CANOEING and TROUT FISHING waters, are also on this fabulous tract of land. This lovely clear water lake, with two inlets and an outlet is "loaded" with Walleyes. The area abounds in wildlife. We are able to offer this priceless Lakeshore Forest area to the 1st ONE HUNDRED families that apply this season, for the unheard of price of ONLY $200 ANNUAL LEASE PER YEAR. Renewable option is provided. You will receive a 100 ft. PRIVATE LAKESHORE SITE, plus a condominium leasehold interest in all the river frontage and all the highland forest to "play in". IF THIS TRUE STORY INTERESTS YOU, drop us a note, call us, or come and see us at the Wautoma, Wisconsin Office, to discuss the private details of this unusual and rare opportunity. A full set of colored slides were taken in October of 1965 and are on hand for showing. OWNER ON PREMISES MAY 28 THRU 30 and JUNE 4 and 5 TO ASSIST YOU IN PICKING YOUR OWN LAKE SHORE SITE. Congress Okays Plan to Shift Federal Loans

Byrnes Says Move Makes Debt Ceiling Figure Meaningless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given President Johnson authority to shift $4.2 billion in government-held loans to private investors in the next year.

The Senate completed action on the measure Monday, voting 50 to 20 to accept minor House changes in an original Senate bill. In the showdown, 47 Democrats and 3 Republicans voted to clear the measure; 18 Republicans and 2 Democrats opposed it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee approved today a national debt ceiling of $330 billion, a figure $2 billion lower than President Johnson's administration had asked.

The House Ways and Means Committee began work today on a proposed new national debt ceiling. But its senior Republican member said congressional authorization to transfer the federal loans to private investors made any ceiling figure meaningless.

The Treasury asked Congress Monday to raise the limit of $332 billion. Congress must act by June 30 or the present ceiling of $328 billion will drop automatically to $285 billion. Congress so far has never failed to raise the ceiling.

Byrnes Comment

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., said the committee would get no help from the GOP as it considered the request. Democrats "made the debt ceiling meaningless" by pushing through the loan transfer bill, he said.

"Let them worry about it," Byrnes said. "I don't see why we should vote for any particular new ceiling." He and other Republicans charged the authorization bill sent to President Johnson actually was another way of borrowing which would not figure in the debt total.

Democrats replied that the legislation merely broadened a proposal made more than 10

Discuss Ending War

Sukarno Yields to New Government, Allows Malaysia Peace Talks

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno has yielded to his new government and has agreed to peace negotiations with Malaysia.

Radio Jakarta reported Monday night that Sukarno had told Foreign Minister Adam Malik he could meet with Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak of Malaysia to discuss ways of ending the 3-year-old undeclared war between the two countries.

Malik told newsmen today he probably would leave for Bangkok later this week. Razak arrived in the Thai capital Monday.

Weekend Meeting

The Indonesian ambassador to Bangkok, M. Diah, returned to Jakarta for consultations and told newsmen that Malik and Razak probably would meet this weekend.

"We in Malaysia hope and pray that it will be possible to end this confrontation," Razak told a banquet in Bangkok Monday night.

The army-backed government dominated by Lt. Gen. Suharto has been trying to arrange an end to the sporadic war with Malaysia since it took power in February. But Sukarno, 64, who ordered the "crush Malaysia" campaign when the federation came into being in 1963, had steadfastly refused.

Persident Furious

Malid told a student delegation Friday that Sukarno had "advised him" not to go to the talks in Bangkok.

"The president was furious at me. He advised me not to go abroad," Malik told the students who were protesting the government's failure to curb inflation and deal with the country's economic woes. Malik told them the anti-Malaysian campaign "has drained us financially" and "led to price increases."

Sukarno claimed that Malaysia, a federation of former British territories in Southeast Asia, was created by Britain to preserve its influence in the area and as a threat to Indonesia. He sent raiding parties into Malaysian Borneo and to the Malayan Peninsula and used the campaign to divert attention from economic woes at home and to enhance his prestige among developing countries.

Britain, Australia and New Zealand sent 50,000 army and navy personnel to the area to help defend Malaysia, and the Indonesian raids were a failure. They have virtually stopped since the unsuccessful Communist coup in Indonesia last Oct.

Dismissal Plea For 'Happeners' Is Turned Down

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A defense request for dismissal of lewd and lascivious conduct charges against two students accused of a nude art performance was rejected by a judge Monday.

Mrs. Susan G. Darcey, 21, and Jeffrey K. Hubbell, 20, both students at the University of Wisconsin, are accused of staging a bathing show as an art "happening" at the Milwaukee Art Center last month.

County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. ruled against defense arguments that the charges should be tossed out because the arrest warrants were issued on hearsay. County Judge Herbert A. Schultz said he signed the warrants after viewing photographs.

Changes Not Strong Enough

UW Students Invade Bascom Hall In Protest of Draft Procedures

MADISON (AP) — Student demonstrators, their numbers dwindling and the danger of disciplinary action increasing, called off a 10-hour University of Wisconsin sit-in today in protest to draft policy.

About 500 students invaded historic Bascom Hall shortly after midnight, angered by faculty rejection of their demands to withhold academic grades from draft officials.

The invasion was free of incident, but it failed to budge school officials who decided to wait out the disturbance.

The exodus also was orderly. It began after protestors took a show of hands from those who wanted to carry on the demonstration. About two dozen of the 200 students raised their hands.

The students pushed their way past outmanned campus security guards to commandeer Bascom Hall which houses the office of university president Fred Harvey Harrington.

They seated themselves on the floor in the narrow corridors of the aging stone building and vowed to remain until their demands were met. Campus police made no immediate effort to eject them.

Change Policy

The faculty at the 29,000-student university voted overwhelmingly at a meeting Monday to make changes in the school's policy toward the draft, but the revisions fell well short of the protesters' demands that all cooperation be ended.

"We're here to protect our university from an alien military influence. We're here to protect our school and ourselves from draft discrimination" said Joh Coatsworth, a graduate student in history.

Coatsworth, who said he was among students who defied a State Department ban on travel to Communist Cuba three years ago, was elected to one of about a dozen posts of leadership in the protest effort Monday night.

The students moved into Bascom Hall when they found their first objective, the campus administration building, was locked and guarded by university police. The protesters had staged a five-day sit-in at the administration building last week.

Historic Building

Bascom Hall is a historic building on the crest of a hill at the end of a mile-long thoroughfare linking the campus to the state Capitol. It bears the university's revered "sifting and winnowing" plaque.

Ralph Hanson, director of university police, stood on the steps of Bascom Hall and, with bullhorn in hand, tried to persuade the students to halt their invasion

Ky Wins Allegiance Of Hue Commander

Split in Opposition to Premier Widens as Last Stronghold Surrenders

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The break in the ranks of the opposition to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky widened further today as the commander of the mutinous 1st Vietnamese Division in the Buddhist stronghold of Hue reportedly pledged his allegiance to Ky.

Defense Ministry sources said Brig. Gen. Pham Xuan Nhuan wired Ky saying he was giving up his opposition. It was not clear immediately whether he also spoke for the troops he commands. The 1st Division provides the military backbone of the opposition in the northern city.

It was the first break in the rebel front in Hue, the remaining stronghold of opposition to the premier.

Little Concern

Heartened by its victory over other rebels in Da Nang, the military regime exhibited little outward concern over the continuing dissidence in Hue, 50 miles northwest of Da Nang

U.S. officials continued their backstage diplomatic role with contacts with the main figures in Hue, Thich Tri Quang and Gens. Nguyen Chanh Thi and Ton That Dinh, successively fired by Ky as commander of the army's northernmost 1st Corps.

Ky's ruling junta showed its confidence also by assembling 1,000 civilian and army representatives at a political congress in Saigon to reaffirm its power. Buddhists boycotted the meeting.

Election Promise

With U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the audience, the military chief of state, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, said once more the regime would carry out its promise of elections this fall for a constitutional convention. He added that the 10-man junta was considering a proposal to add five civilians to its membership.

While Ky defended his military action against Da Nang as essential to preserve the nation, 400 Buddhist demonstrators marched peacefully before the guarded U.S. Embassy to protest the crushing of the Da Nang

Civil Strife Ends

By AL CHANG

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — After a week of fighting and death in the streets, Da Nang put on a new face today. Smiles lighted the grim, intent faces of war.

Shops, barred and shuttered for a week, were thrown open to business. People again clogged the streets as they went about normal, everyday chores.

Policemen returned to their posts, replacing soldiers who had taken over armed control of major street intersections. The traffic officers had smiles as they made the precise, almost mechanical gestures which kept traffic flowing in the narrow streets.

Everywhere, tension was gone, from the faces of pretty young girls, withered old men and all the other people who made a town live.

The clamor of voices and motors replaced the chatter of machine-guns and the whine of bullets at a service station where I photographed a pitched battle a few days ago.

Down the street at the main market, where I had photographed another stiff fight, merchants and customers smiled as they haggled over prices. But the smiles could not rub out bullet holes in the walls.

Women with baskets of goods suspended from bamboo poles trotted by the street corner where I had snapped a woman crying Friday as she tried to comfort her wounded husband. The woman was there again today. Her bashful half grin told me she recognized me and that her husband was doing better.

Throughout the city people were clearing away the debris of war from the streets and sidewalks.

At Tinh Hoi pagoda, stronghold of the dissident Buddhists, the faces of the shaven monks and their followers registered defeat, but the tension imposed by the threat of death was gone. The pagoda was the scene of numerous pitched battles during the week.

Carley Gives Viet Nam View

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — David Carley, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, called today for an immediate American cease-fire in Viet Nam, withdrawal of U. S. troops to defense perimeters, and free elections there under United Nations auspices if possible.

Carley's major policy statements came at an early morning press conference here today.

He said his views were now being expressed after consideration of several months. The statement had been cleared with high-ranking Washington officials, Carley said. But he declined to name them, saying that many of those with whom he had checked did not agree with his stand.

Although his views were somewhat similar to those of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., Carley said he had not cleared them with the senator.

Four-Step Program

The United States should initiate a four-step program to bring peace to Southeast Asia, according the the Democratic national committeeman.

A policy statement explaining that the United States recognizes that its primary moral commitment in Viet Nam is not to subvert the 1954 Geneva Accords must be made first, Carley said. "At the same time, however, we must carefully point out that our actions up to now have been undertaken to permit the process outlined in 1954 to take place," he added.

Wisconsin Man Killed in Action

Romney-Javits GOP Ticket Is Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's suggestion of a 1968 Romney-Javits ticket gives Republican moderates a combination many of them might be willing to chance in an effort to retain party control.

Naturally, there are dissenters to the New York governor's statement Monday that there is "a growing feeling among Republicans it might be nice" to have Michigan Gov. George Romney run for president and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., for vice president two years from now.

While not making a formal endorsement, Rockefeller said "with candidates of the caliber of these two great leaders we will be returned by the people of this country to national trust and responsibility."

Partisans of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who currently is on an inspection trip to South Viet Nam, gagged somewhat at Rockefeller's suggestion of a ticket they think their own man might well head.

Michigan's Gov. George Romney put an arm around New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as they hold an impromptu conference at a Republican fund-raising dinner in Garden City, N.J. Monday night. He hinted he favored a 1968 GOP ticket of Romney and Sen. Jacob Javits, New York. (AP Wirephoto)

One Death Blamed on Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms raked southeastern Wisconsin Monday, unleashing record rains and destructive winds.

One death was linked to the storms which swept the Madison, Watertown and Waukesha areas.

High winds splintered farm buildings, snapped power lines and uprooted trees. A section of roof was ripped from a Watertown factory.

A barn rebuilt after the Palm Sunday tornadoes of a year ago was destroyed on a farm near Watertown only three days after a barn dance celebrating its completion.

Timothy D. Gallagher, 17, Sun Prairie, was killed when the car in which he was riding skidded into a street lamp pole in Madison at the height of the storm. Deputy Coroner Clyde Chamberlain of Dane County said the heavy rain contributed to the crash.

Madison Drenched

The storms drenched Madison with a record 3.57 inches of rain within a six-hour period. The rainfall was the heaviest ever measured in Madison for a single day in May.

Southeastern Wisconsin remained under a tornado watch for six hours until nearly 10 p.m. There was one report of a twister in the Watertown area, but it was not confirmed.

Storm damage in the Fox Valley area was said to be relatively minor. Several utility poles were downed and there were scattered reports of lightning damage. Rain measured less than one inch.

Four persons suffered minor injuries when buildings collapsed or roofs were ripped away by winds.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the thunderstorms towered nine miles high as they rolled across the southern part of the state. Winds ranged up to 70 miles an hour, weathermen said.

Vic Gehrke of Watertown, the Dodge County Civil Defense director, said damage would run into thousands of dollars.

Gehrke said he counted half a dozen barns destroyed and an equal number of homes with damage to roofs in a tour of the county.

In the Lebanon area, northeast of Watertown, the winds tore apart the new barn on the Ray Fredrick farm little more than one year after a tornado had demolished the previous barn on the same site.

The barn had been rebuilt after the death-dealing Palm Sunday tornadoes that struck Wisconsin and the Midwest, sweeping through the same area. A barn dance had been held at Fredrick's farm last Friday night to celebrate completion of the structure, neighbors said.

A farm hand, Ernst Dornfeld, 70, suffered cuts and bruises when struck by lumber as the barn collapsed. Gehrke said the pattern of destruction of the barn indicated a tornado, but witnesses said no funnel cloud had been sighted.

Minor Injuries

Ervin Bankert, 29, and his father-in-law, Ralph Mekelburg Sr., 66, suffered minor injuries when the winds bowled over the garage in which they had taken shelter at Bankert's home south of Watertown.

In Waukesha, a workman, Charles K. Detker, 2, was hurt slightly when the winds blew away the roof of an apartment building under construction.

Watertown police reported a 40-foot section of roof was ripped from the Mid-State Shoe Co. factory while employes were working inside, but no one was hurt.

A semitrailer truck laden with lumber was upset on Highway 109 north of Watertown.

Barn damage was also report-

$1.60 in Two Steps

House Debate Opens On Minimum Wage Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House opened debate today on a bill to raise the federal minimum wage in two steps to $1.60 and extend its coverage to 7.2 million more employes, including nearly a half million farm workers.

Opponents warn inflation and unemployment could result from the bill, which would increase the present $1.25 an hour minimum to $1.60 by Feb. 1, 1968. There would be an interim increase to $1.40 next Feb. 1.

In one of the most controversial sections of the bill, farm workers would be included at $1 an hour next Feb. 1, and get two annual 15-cent raises to $1.30 by Feb. 1, 1969. The other newly covered workers would start at the same level but get additional 15-cent raises to $1.60 by 1971.

Passage Certain

Passage of a bill in some form is regarded as certain, but several attempts are expected to trim both the wage increase and the coverage. No votes are expected before Wednesday.

Chief target of members from rural areas is the proposal to bring farm workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act for the first time.

The bill is aimed at farming operations with at least seven full-time employes. The House Education and Labor Committee says this would affect 485,000 employes, or 39 per cent of the nation's farm workers, but only 1.6 per cent of the farms.

In its proposed new coverage the bill exceeds the 4.2 million additional workers recommended by the administration. The administration did not ask for coverage of farm workers.

The proposed wage increase also reaches $1.60 faster than the administration wanted. President Johnson did not propose a specific increase but administration opposition forced the committee to recede from the $1.75 top it agreed on last year.

The committee estimates the total increase in payroll costs for the first year of the bill would be slightly over $1 billion.

Wilson was expected to issue orders to the navy soon under a state of national emergency proclaimed Monday by Queen Elizabeth II. But he assured the House of Commons that naval vessels would not be used indiscriminately.

Court Fines Man In Waupaca for Conduct, Driving

WAUPACA — A rural Waupaca man, who refused to cooperate with city police after they stopped him for driving on the wrong side of the road, was fined $75 and costs Monday in Municipal Justice Court.

Victor Sawczensko, 25, route 4, Waupaca, pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and operating a vehicle over the center line.

He was arrested at 12:45 a.m. Monday when police observed him driving on the wrong side of Fulton Street. When stopped and asked for his driver's license, Sawczensko used profane language, police said. He was taken to the county jail where he was held until he appeared in court, later in the day.

'Moderates' Appear to Take Control of Wisconsin GOP

Observers Term Friction as 'Big Meeting Issue'

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Although many state Republican leaders tried to play down reports of a conservative versus moderate struggle occurring during the state GOP convention held in Milwaukee over the weekend, most observers agreed that the apparent division was the big issue.

While conservatives, or right-wing elements, attending the convention tried to make as much noise as they did two years ago, their score was "zero" when it came to achieving results.

Some party leaders, such as former State Chairman Talbot Peterson of Appleton, denied there was conservative-moderate or conservative-liberal friction. However, most observers agreed when it was over that the Goldwater era had ended and an era of moderation seems to have begun in the state GOP.

Admits Friction

State Chairman Ody Fish of Hartland indirectly acknowledged, however, that there was friction.

Fish, who seemed to be the target for conservative scorn and criticism at the convention, summarized the dissidents' accomplishments after the convention delegations endorsed a resolution supporting Gov. Warren Knowles' highway bonding proposal by a 300-vote majority.

Fish said: "That makes the score the Christians 12, and the Lions, zero."

The conservation element of the party attempted to undermine Fish and the party's state executive committee on the issue of whether the disenfranchised West Allis GOP unit would be seated for the convention. The leader of the group was David Stearns, Whitefish Bay, who had been ousted earlier in the year by the state committee as chairman of the Milwaukee County unit.

West Allis Issue

The West Allis issue became the banner which all conservatives united in an attempt to embarass Fish who actually was a "stand-in" for Knowles. And, it was no secret to anyone attending the convention that the dissidents had a fair number of John Birch Society members in their numbers and at least two known 1964 delegates who were pledged to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in the Democratic Party primary.

However, attempts to win recognition for the West Allis unit failed in the credentials committee by a 19 to 1 vote. If the party leadership had chosen to let matters rest there, convention rules would have supported them.

But the GOP leaders didn't want the minority group to appear as martyrs. As a result, Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi of Minocqua who is the Republican

Peterson Denies That He Worked With Dissidents

Former State Republican Chairman Talbot Peterson of Appleton issued a statement Monday in which he denied a report in Saturday's Post-Crescent that he "appeared" to be a leader of a dissident group which was active in Milwaukee last weekend at the State Republican convention.

Peterson said the report was "ridiculous."

Saturday's Post-Crescent carried a report which said, "Much of the support for the West Allis group came from staunch conservative elements in the state party, and one of the leaders of the dissidents appeared to be Talbot Peterson of Appleton. Fish's predecessor."

(Fish is Ody Fish of Hartland, the present state Republican chairman.)

The report said, "Peterson and David Stearns, Whitefish Bay, the man who the state committee removed as Milwaukee County chairman earlier this year, were seen conferring earnestly several times during the day."

Report "Ridiculous"

Peterson said Monday that the story which said "reports ... that I 'appeared' to be a leader of the dissident group at the state convention because I was seen talking to David Stearns, the former Milwaukee County chairman, are ridiculous.

"I am the state chairman for Jack Olson (the GOP endorsed candidate for lieutenant governor) and as such, I have and will maintain friendly relations with all Republicans," Peterson said.

"For six months," he went on, "I have, and I will, do what I can to get our party back on a united basis, and my efforts in this direction are well known to both executive committee and the leaders of the Milwaukee group My position can hardly be misunderstood when I stood before the convention on Saturday afternoon and called for party united, and support for

CESA Votes to Dissolve Bear Creek School District

Territory Will be Attached to Clintonville, Is Unanimous Decision After Public Hearing

BEAR CREEK — A resolution to dissolve the Bear Creek School District and attach it to the Clintonville School District on May 23, 1967 was passed unanimously by the Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 8 School District Reorganization Committee Monday at Bear Creek.

The decision was made after a lengthy public hearing at the high school and in spite of the fact that the majority of the more than 350 people present seemed to favor retaining the school.

People favoring the attachment to Clintonville felt that their best spokesman was a study made by the State Department of Public Instruction. It showed that reorganization would benefit the children in the Bear Creek District.

76 Sign Petition

A petition for reorganization, signed by 76 residents of the district, was given to the committee.

The main spokesman for those opposing the resolution was state Sen. Gerald Lorge who asked the committee not to make a decision immediately. He requested a further study of the statistics to increase the district prepared by Ralph E. Jolliffe, school reorganization administrator.

Lorge referred to a counter-proposal to transfer territory from the Clintonville and New London School Districts to the Bear Creek District. This recently was advocated by a newly-organized Bear Creek Area Citizens Educational Committee.

"We feel that this is one of the wealthiest farm districts in the state and we want to be given an opportunity to show whether we have a good school district," he said. "I'm sure a study would show that if Bear Creek would be given proper evaluation, the taxes could be reduced and the school enlarged."

Decrease Taxes

Many of the other people who spoke in opposition to the proposal also indicated that enlarging the district would decrease the taxes and increase the curriculum.

"This school district has done the best it could with what it had," one voter said, "But the district is far too small; if we could acquire territory, we could better meet the expectations of the state."

Kenneth Poppy, CESA 8 coordinator, pointed out that no detailed study had been made of the counter-proposal and that only one official study of the problem had been presented by the state Department of Public Instruction.

Independent Study

He pointed out, however, that an enlargement study, showing the pros and cons accurately and in detail, could be made by an independent study group from one of the universities.

The people then were asked if they would support this kind of a study even if it was not in their favor, and except for one voter, they indicated they would.

However, because of the delay involved and the cost of such a study as well as the problem of who would pay for it, the committee decided against such action.

Rumors Not True

Lorge also pointed out that a number of rumors had been going around about the school which were not wholly true.

"There has been talk that only 10 per cent of our graduates go on to college, as compared to the state's average statistics of 50 per cent," he said. "But according to a study which shows the number of students attending college the first year after graduation, 29 per cent of the Bear Creek students go on to college."

This is not a wealthy community and many of the children have to work a year before

9th District Parley Adopts Resolution At Little Chute

Delegates to the 9th District American Legion Spring Conference at Little Chute Sunday adopted a resolution urging the state and national organization to change the dates of eligibility for membership.

Under the proposed resolution all persons who have served more than six months active duty from February 1, 1955 to the present time, would be eligible for membership.

Forty-seven Legion posts were represented at the meeting. Joseph Martinson, Sturgeon Bay, was elected district commander, succeeding Martin J. Jansen, Little Chute. Jansen will be a candidate for state vice commander at the June State convention in Eau Claire.

The fall conference will be in Casco, the 1967 spring conference in Marinette.

Arrested in Waupaca, Manawa, Weyauwega

Tale of Driving Woes in 3 Cities

WAUPACA — A former New London youth, who now lists his address as Milwaukee, was arrested for speeding in Weyauwega, reckless driving in Manawa, and inattentive driving and failure to report an accident here, Sunday, before he was jailed by Waupaca Police.

Third Arrest

Gaylord L. Batten, 20, Milwaukee, pleaded guilty to the Waupaca and Manawa charges Monday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court. He was fined a total of $225 plus costs. He also has posted a $22 bond at Weyauwega for speeding.

Waupaca police said Batten's car was involved in a two-car accident at the intersection of Union and Franklin Streets at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Neither driver reported the accident to police who received a complaint about the crash and during the investigation learned that one of the cars was owned by Batten.

Batten had been arrested earlier Sunday by Weyauwega police and following the accident he was arrested in Manawa at 10.35 p.m. for reckless driving. After his second arrest he returned to Waupaca and was arrested for the third time.

Municipal Justice George Whalen fined Batten $50 and costs for inattentive driving, $75 and costs for failure to report the accident, and $100 and costs for reckless driving.

A New London youth, driver of the car in the accident also was found by police and issued a summons for failure to report an accident. He is scheduled to appear in court Wednesday.

Commission Policy Committee

Wolf River Basin Counties' Land-Use Programs Urged

The need for well thought out land-use programs for the eight Wolf River Basin counties was stressed Monday morning at a meeting of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission land-use policy committee.

Gordon A. Bubolz, commission chairman, said that unless programs are implemented soon "we will be threatened with the loss of many of our valuable natural resources . . . which have been a valuable heritage to us in the past and will be in the future if we save them."

Program Goals

Bubolz added that the purpose of land-use planning is to preserve, restore and improve the quality of the physical environment.

He outlined a number of goals which the commission's land-use programs should attain:

- Identification of soil types to determine the best land-use capabilities.
- To preserve and restore natural beauty and give nature an assist in creating it anew, Bubolz said, "that a thing is beautiful when it portrays beauty without monotony; variety without class." He noted that natural beauty is both a spiritual and material asset
- Water quality and originating sources of water supply The land-use planning will place strong emphasis on the identification and preservation of marshes, swamps, waterland areas, bogs, springheads and flood plains, which are the water seedbeds, water recharging areas.

Pilot Program

- Multiple purpose sub-watershed development program. Bubolz said that the first effort will be a pilot project which will identify the problems, suggest solutions and programs for the preservation and development of facilities which affect the whole range of water-based economic and human resources development.
- Preservation of wild life habitats
- Providing adequate parks and recreation facilities. Bubolz noted there is considerable pressure for assistance by member counties due to the broad public interest and demand for a wide range of recreational facilities.
- Providing adequate transportation facilities along with highway beautification

The need for informing the public about zoning ordinances was emphasized by Douglas A. Yanggen, land use planning specialist, agricultural extension division, University of Wisconsin.

He said that even though counties may adopt zoning ordinances they will be useless unless adopted by the towns in the various counties. Yanggen said that the citizens must be informed of the provisions of the ordinance prior to a public hearing. He said this will aid in the adoption and implementation of the ordinances.

The committee is considering various aspects of land-use programs at an all day meeting in the Home Mutual Building, Appleton. The committee is expected to adopt policy statements on scheduling the zoning assistance program to each member county, and prepare the text and map of the zoning ordinance and continued administration of the zoning ordinance.

The State Board of Health also has filed a letter which states the land involved is unsuitable for residential development without public sewers and various improvements.

2 New London Youths Found Innocent on Hunting Charges

A six-member Outagamie County Court jury Monday afternoon found two New London youths innocent of game charges brought by a Wisconsin Conservation Department warden.

The youths are Stephen J. Dorsey, 16, 722 W. Jennings St., and David G. Monseur, 17, 1906 Pershing Road.

They were arrested March 27 in the Town of Hortonia by Warden Albert Vander Bloemen who charged them with hunting pheasant out of season. Both youths pleaded innocent on April 15.

The jury, impaneled in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, deliberated only about a half hour in reaching the verdict. About a half day of testimony was heard.

Homes Damaged, Phones Out

Lightning, Rain, Hit Fox Valley Area

Portions of Outagamie and Calumet counties were hit by severe electrical storms which damaged two homes and caused phone outages in several areas Heavy rains lashed the area about 6 p.m. Monday night.

In the rural agricultural areas, fields still had water standing on them early this morning.

The central and southern portions of Calumet County were hit by heavy rain, wind and electrical storms.

30 Outages

The General Telephone Co. reported about 30 outages in the Chilton, Hilbert, Brillion area, most caused by lightning.

Sheriff's department reported a tree blow down west of Chilton. About 3 inches of rain fell.

Electrical wiring in a house owned by Ben Idsinger, 802 Division St., New London, was damaged by lightning at 7:10 p.m. Monday.

Lightning Strikes

New London firemen said the lightning struck a television antenna and traveled along the wire into the electrical system. An electrician was to check out the wiring before power was restored.

No fire broke out and the extent of damage was not immediately known.

Lightning struck the home and garage of William Rohan, Town of Greenville, Outagamie County, about 7:15 p.m. Monday. Hortonville firemen were called.

Wires Scorched

The lightning knocked siding off the garage and portions of the house, blew the recepticle out in the dining room, scorched a wall in the kitchen and ripped the telephone box off the house.

Firemen checked the home and although the attics of both the house and garage were filled with smoke, no fire was found. The power company was called, because wire copings from the road to the house were scorched. All fuses in the home were out. The Rohans were forced to telephone from a neighbor's home.

There was no estimate of the damage, said Fire Chief Lawrence Moder.

New London Home Damaged by Fire

Chief Al Shafer Estimates Loss From 2-Hour Blaze at $10,000

NEW LONDON — Fire caused about $10,000 damage late Monday to the Leonard Sasse home, 204 E. Washington St.

Smoke was billowing from the roof and flames shot from beneath the eaves when firemen arrived about 10:35 a.m. The roof of the two-story building was severely damaged by fire and the remainder of the home suffered heavy water and smoke damage.

Surrounding homes were not threatened by the fire and suffered no apparent damage from water or smoke.

Neighbors and passersby helped remove furnishings from the first floor. Some furniture on the second floor was destroyed, firemen reported

Less than 1,000 gallons of water were used on the fire during the two hours the firemen battled the flames.

"All indications are that the fire resulted from electrical wiring in the home," Fire Chief Al Schafer said. "There was quite a bit of fire damage and heavy damage from water."

He estimated the loss at $8,000 to $10,000.

Furniture carried from the house was stored in a garage or covered by large tarpaulins to protect it from a light rain that fell throughout the fire.

Driver Education Gets Expanded Position on Hilbert High Curriculum

Starts With Fall Semester and Includes Juniors for First Time

HILBERT — The driver education program of the high school received a warranted boost as the schedule has been expanded to include the fall term with Chrysler Corp. offering a new car to use in the course.

Cars are normally not available until the new models are placed on the market later in the term, according to the announcement made at the board of education meeting Friday.

Daniel Strauss, who will replace Darwyn Penke, will teach driver education in addition to Richard Werblow. Juniors are expected to be included in the course, previously only offered sophomores.

Banking facilities

A communication from the Farmers State Bank, Potter, requested the facility be used as the school's working bank on an alternate year basis. The board ruled because of the five-mile distance to the bank, it was not practical. However, it was decided to approach the bank for loans and investments, if agreeable to them. Potter and surrounding area is in the Hilbert school district. The school currently does all its business with the State Bank of Hilbert, which is building a new facility across from the school.

The board agreed by roll call vote not to release David Paulus, high school biology and general science teacher from his new contract.

Paulus asked to be released to accept a position with the Menasha system. He said, "he had no disagreements with the board and had been happy here." The Menasha position was an advancement he said.

Board members agreed to hold his contract until a teacher of equal caliber be hired. They said they were pleased with his work and would be sorry to lose him.

One member said it was time for some legislation protecting school boards from teachers who sign contracts, then look for another job. They said schools were obligated to keep their side of a contract but it seemed teachers were not obligated to theirs. They also stated that teachers did not have to live in the Hilbert district. They were, however, opposed to keeping teachers who were unhappy in the system.

Teacher Availability

Earl Anderson, supervising principal, was told to see if a teacher is available when he visits Madison for approval of the proposed summer reading program.

Cafeteria accounting regarding St. Mary Catholic pupils who eat at the public school was explained. Anderson said to date the account "was in the black." A discrepancy showed on the books due to the difference in prices charged grade, high school and teachers, as aid was based on pupil percentage. It was agreed that St. Mary's not be billed as long as the program was paying for itself, since profit was not the purpose of lunch programs and because public school children also were involved. A raise in grade school prices would be made if the program lost money.

Items to be included in the budget were presented by Anderson. Four footbath boards dispensing a sanitary mist spray were approved for the boys' locker room to prevent spread of infections.

Other Expenditures

Other items included $1,000 expenditures to equip a room for Raymond Nehrlich, who will be guidance counselor next year; library items, elementary workbooks, spellers and English composition, payment on electric typewriters, purchased on a three-year installment, cabinets for vocational agriculture, athletic equipment, shop, band instruments and minor items for home economics.

Board members asked Anderson to see that students taking band be encouraged in their efforts and that other students be encouraged to take band as a subject. Some lack of interest in band was blamed on the many required subjects. Board members did not think the raise in instrument rental was a contributing factor. Until last year the Band Mothers Club had furnished all instruments for more than 25 years and the school kept the $5 rental fee. Last year the club discontinued buying instruments and the board raised the fee to $10 a year.

At a special meeting the vocational program being offered at Brillion in cooperation with other Brillion industries was rejected. The program would cost $200 a student. Most of the students had shown interest in mechanics and they felt it would be used mostly as a hobby.

Judith Klitzke and John Buskeger have been hired in the elementary department replacing Nehrlich and Mrs. Myrna Sweet.

Board member R. A. Thiel will present diplomas to the graduates on June 2.

Future senior class trips should be of an educational nature, the board recommended, with all students participating.

Tape Recorded Talk

Mental Health Group Attacked by Bircher

The National Mental Health Association was under attack Monday in a transcribed telephone message in the Fox Cities by a local member of the John Birch Society.

Work of the association was questioned as being subversive in the tape-recorded talk being transmitted from the house-trailer of Jerry W. Steinhart, County Trunk BB.

The Sunday Post-Crescent carried two stories on a previous transcribed broadcast in which President Johnson and Defense Secretary McNamara were accused of "treason." Rep. John Race (D-Fond du Lac) charged Saturday the Let Freedom Ring organization working with Steinhart was a John Birch Society front organization.

Questioned by the Post-Crescent, Steinhart said he was a member of the John Birch Society and "proud of it."

Today's message, which will run this week, warns local citizens of the National Mental Health Movement, claiming it wants more government and more money.

Cautions of Goals

The 90-second talk was directed mostly at Fox Cities residents who are active in the mental health movement, cautioning them of its goals.

It says the mental health program on the national level is out to obtain more government money and "is politicking for more world government under the Communist-dominated United Nations."

The charge is made the Mental Health Association wants to control people rather than disease.

Statistics are also quoted from the State of California.

May Be Subversive

At one pount the Let Freedom Ring message says the American Legion and a few other national organizations have indicated "the mental health movement may be subversive."

The message said to call again next week to obtain "more revealing information about the subversive nature of the mental health movement."

It also asks for contributions to be made to an address in Florida for information on "The mental health fraud."

Steinhart lives in a mobile home court west of Appleton, works at Neenah and says he joined the John Birch Society about a year ago. He has declined any further comment.

Red Cross Offers 2nd Swimming Class For Sherwood Children

SHERWOOD — A second Red Cross course of swimming instructions is being offered to Sherwood area children over seven years of age.

Since the first announcement of lessons, conducted under the Calumet County Red Cross water safety program, one course has been filled and there is a waiting list of 25 persons.

The second course will begin July 11 and run for three weeks, according to Mrs. William Stauss, Chilton, chapter chairman, if about 50 more children register.

Mrs. Paul Krueger, route 1, Menasha, will accept registrations until Friday. A pool fee of $1 50 per child will be charged. Cost of transportation from Sherwood to the pool will depend on the number of children participating.

The first course will run from June 20 to July 8 from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. five days a week.

Aged Mare Gives Birth To Colt Near Tomah

TOMAH (AP)— A mare who was bought by the Army in 1940 as a pre-World War 2 officer's mount, and hence is well into what normally would be the geriatric stage for a horse, has given birth to a colt at the Lyle Holmes ranch near Tomah.

Military Millie has foaled twice since Holmes acquired her in 1961.

Earthquake Shakes Sacramento Valley

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A moderate earthquake jarred a wide segment of the northern Sacramento Valley Monday night. There were no immediate reports of injuries or damage.

CESA Vote Dissolves Bear Creek District

going on, he added. "If the study had been made showing those attending college two years after high school, I'm sure Bear Creek would rate much higher," Lorge said.

Enough Courses

Another major issue in the decision is the curriculum offered by the school, Lorge said. "It has been rumored that we don't offer enough courses but a study indicates that there are enough courses the student can take during his four years to prepare him for whatever he plans to do after high school."

In analyzing the statistics, the committee found that the major shortcomings in the curriculum were the lack of language courses, tribonometry and analytical geometry. Technically, shop courses don't exist but are taught in agriculture classes. Science courses are offered in alternate years.

Some of the people opposing the resolution felt that because of the distance the children would have to travel, to Clintonville schools, they could not participate in the extra curricular activities.

Work Out Later

Harland Kirchner, speaking for the Clintonville school board, said that this would have to be worked out by the two boards after the committee had reached a decision.

Though the meeting was orderly and subdued throughout, the three hours, feelings ran higher during the rebuttal session when Lorge pointed out that the Bear Creek District "may be used as a partridge with the feathers pulled out and divided.

"The very least we are entitled to," he said, "after the long time we have been in existence, is a fair decision.

"Let's not decide this issue by making deals in barns and backyards," he said, and referring to the talk that after Bear Creek is attached to Clintonville, it will be divided again and part of it given to New London, he added

In rebuttal, Poppy said that there had been no backyard deals, only discussions with people who were interested in a better education for their children.

During and after the meeting many of the people indicated that they were tired of the drawn-out reorganization fights and that they would be willing to support the committee's decision if it would settle the dispute once and for all

"Almost 20 years ago my father told me I might be going to Clintonville," one of the voters said, "and today we are still talking about it."

His remark was greeted by a round of applause

Court Dismisses Petty Theft Count Involving Old Car

OSHKOSH — A petty theft charge against Raymond J. Neetzel, 29, route 1, Neenah, was dismissed by County Judge James Sitter after a trial before him May 13 on the grounds there was insufficient evidence to establish a prima facie case.

Neetzel was arraigned on Feb. 23 on a charge of theft of a 1932 Plymouth from a farm owned by Lloyd Acheson on County Trunk BB in the Town of Menasha.

The charge later was reduced to petty theft of value under $100 Neetzel pleaded innocent and trial was held before the court.

During the trial it developed that Neetzel had been in the process of buying the farm and there was a misunderstanding regarding personal property on the farm. The car involved was stored at the farm but was owned by a John W Seefeldt The car is still at the sheriff's garage.

Peterson Says He Wasn't One Of Dissidents

Story 'Is Not True"

Peterson also charged that reports which say "differences within the party involve a fight between conservatives and liberals are also ridiculous. The state executive committee issued a statement to this effect on Thursday and David Stearns, as the spokesman for the Milwaukee group, agrees

"For their own unknown reasons," Peterson said, "some people on both sides of this argument, and both so-called liberals and conservatives, have tried to bill our differences in these terms, and it just is not true.

"In an election year it is tragic that the leadership of our party has been questioned, as it was this weekend. Republicans must now settle their differences and rally behind their elected officials and leaders, or the Republican Party will face defeat in November."

Action Questioned

Peterson also said, "Many good Republicans whom I know, for example from Ozaukee and from Outagamie County, who are not known as conservatives as such, questioned and still question the action of the executive committee in regard to Milwaukee County and the West Allis delegation.

"It is unfortunate," he said, "that the basic differences in this dispute became clouded in issues that really didn't and don't exist, and that after the convention there still are few delegates, to say nothing of Republicans generally, who have the faintest idea of what it's all about

Peterson also charged that "the press, generally, has failed to mention the unanimous statement by the executive committee or to report Stearns' views on this subject, and continues to discuss the entire matter in terms that are so untrue and unrealistic that it is unbelievable."

Hortonville School Graduation Thursday

HORTONVILLE — Graduation services for eighth grade pupils at Bethlehem Lutheran School is scheduled for 7:30 p m Thursday at the church.

Teachers will distribute report cards after the service, marking the end of the school year.

The Christian Education Society will serve refreshments in the church parlors after the service.

minority leader in the lower house of the legislature and who was acting as convention parliamentarian, requested and obtained unanimous consent from convention delegates for a minority credentials committee report.

Vote Backfires

The vote of 2,717 to 711 backfired for the rebels and turned into a confidence vote for Fish and the GOP's state executive leadership

When the issue was settled, even Stearns seemed to succumb to the mood of unity and moderation. He was quoted as saying, "It's all over. I'm still a Republican and I will support all the endorsed candidates."

Unquestionably, the party leadership was making major efforts to expand the party's base of appeal. Seventh District Rep. Melvin Laird of Marshfield said at the opening session that the initials "GOP" should no longer stand for Grand Old Party, but for "Great Open Party."

Several convention results indicated that the state party succeeded in accomplishing what Laird called for, but two examples stood out.

First, there was the speech by outgoing Wisconsin AFL-CIO president George Haberman who said organized labor's traditional allegiance to the Democratic Party "can be and will be changed" in 1966. He said labor leadership has discovered they have very few friends in the Democratic Party — "the party we have praised and worked for"

Next, there was the convention endorsement of Louis Cici, a Milwaukee attorney of Italian extraction, for the state office of attorney general.

Cici's endorsement came as a result of an 11th hour effort by Assembly Republicans to upset what had appeared to be the almost-certain endorsement of Taylor County Dist. Atty John Olson. Cici's supporters apparently convinced delegates that a Milwaukee Italian would give better balance to the state ticket than an up-state man named Olson.

After the last gavel was rapped by permanent convention chairman Rep. Glenn Davis of Waukesha late Saturday afternoon, Fish referred to the West Allis unit controversey as "a minor concern."

"In the end," he told delegates during his convention address, "I suspect how we discharge our obligations as the party of the current administration is going to be a lot more important to the rank and file voter than any debates we may exercise from within our ranks."

What Mr. McNamara Also Said

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, meeting in Montreal, has been most widely publicized for suggesting changes in the Selective Service System which differ from the official viewpoint in Washington. Congressmen Reuss and Kastenmeier expressed the belief that permitting Peace Corps service to substitute for military service would downgrade the Peace Corps. Senator Nelson said that the idea of two years service for every American young man would be regarded as "more American saber rattling, a call to universal military training to demonstrate how firm is our resolve to use military force to gain our objectives."

But, while we are in general agreement with Mr. McNamara's suggestions on military service, it is too bad that this part of the speech has received most of the publicity. Actually there was a great deal more which serves to indicate how Secretary McNamara views American foreign relations even if United States actions do not always seem consistently to bear out the policies.

McNamara said there are three groups of nations for which "the United States—to preserve its own intrinsic security—has to have distinctive sets of relationships. First, we have to help protect those developing countries which genuinely need and request our help, and which, as an essential precondition—are willing and able to help themselves.

"Second, we have to encourage and achieve a more effective partnership with those nations who can and should share international peace-keeping responsibilities.

"Third, we must do all we realistically can to reduce the risk of conflict with those who might be tempted to take up arms against us."

McNamara pointed out the inescapable relationship between the economically underprivileged nations and the incidence of violence. The statistics are startling. Divided according to World Bank figures as to per capita income, only one of the 27 "rich" nations has had a major internal upheaval on its own territory since 1958. But among the 38 very poor nations, there have been an average of two major outbreaks of violence per country in the eight year period. Since the economic gap is increasing, and so are the populations in the poor countries, the future is bound to contain a great deal of violence.

Clearly McNamara was asking for help among the richer nations, although it may be quite true that part of his speech also was aimed at Saigon, as Senator Nelson suggested. "Neither conscience nor sanity itself suggests that the United States is, should, or could be the global gendarme. Quite the contrary, experience confirms what human nature suggests: That in most instances of internal violence, the local people themselves are best able to deal directly with the situation within the framework of their own traditions. . . . Certainly we have no charter to rescue floundering regimes, who have brought violence on themselves by deliberately refusing to meet the legitimate expectations of their citizenry."

Security, according to McNamara, does not depend upon "military hardware", although that may be important, but rather upon development. Nor are Communists always to blame although he pointed out that "Communists are capable of subverting, manipulating, and finally directing for their own ends, the wholly legitimate grievances of a developing society." But "of the 149 serious internal insurgencies in the past eight years, Communists have been involved in only 58 of them—38 per cent of the total—and this includes seven instances in which a Communist regime itself was the target of the uprising."

It was a most remarkable speech. Reportedly the Secretary worked on it for many days and it was read at the White House in advance. It indicates a flexibility of mind and a real understanding of the problems of American power in today's world which unfortunately Secretary McNamara has not shown in his Vietnamese policies. Perhaps he best expressed the whole matter himself when he said that "all the evidence of history suggests that man is indeed a rational animal—but with a near infinite capacity for folly."

The Dominican Republic Election

While "free elections" in Viet Nam seem more remote with each day, there seem to be sound possibilities that those scheduled for the first of June in the Dominican Republic will go through. There is even hope they will be reasonably well-conducted.

But the leading candidate for president, former president Juan Bosch, already has threatened to withdraw just as he did several years ago when there was turmoil. Bosch charges that the government of Provisional President Hector Garcia Godoy has not given guarantees that the elections will be fair or that Mr. Bosch's party will not be worked against by undercover methods.

The extent of Bosch's suspicion of just about everybody is tremendous. United States Embassy officials have predicted that the contest for the presidency between Bosch and Joaquin Balaguer probably will be close. Bosch has interpreted this as a plant in newspapers leading to a fraudulent victory for Balaguer backed by the United States. In the light of what was certainly something less than the full truth given by Washington when American troops were sent to the Dominican Republic allegedly to protect American nationals endangered by the civil war, Bosch has some grounds for suspicion. But it also must be suspected that he would rather withdraw from a contest if he felt that he wasn't going to win, whether the elections are fair or fraudulent.

Chances for a stable government in the Dominican, whatever the outcome of the elections, are not great. The violent antagonisms have gone on for decades and, as Bosch's threat to withdraw indicates, there is an excitability among the Dominicans that does not contribute to the democratic process of elections without violence.

Bottoms Up

Now it turns out that the grizzled old prospectors who carried a flask of whisky "for snake bite" weren't necessarily secret sippers or just fooling themselves.

Dr. Herbert Stahnke, professor of zoology at Arizona State University, has been conducting considerable research into the effects of alcohol upon rats which have been bitten by poisonous snakes. He conducted the same sort of studies with scorpion venom. He not only discovered that whisky helped lower the number of deaths but that certain types of alcoholic beverages were preferable.

Scotch and vodka most significantly lowered the death ratio, grain alcohol made little difference at all but tequila and brandy increased the percentage of deaths from the venom. Dr. Stahnke started the research because he found that stress made the venom more lethal and presumably the relaxing effects of some alcoholic beverages lessened the danger. This might bring us some future advertising campaigns.

However, Dr. Stahnke also warned that what happens in rats may not necessarily be true for man. And besides the amount of alcohol used in proportion would mean at least a quart of whisky for a man nipped by a cottonmouth. The hangover might even make the snake bite effects pleasant.

Fond du Lac Poet Praised

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for May 17, 1866.

The handsomely printed volume of Poems by Mr. Chapman, of this City, (Fond du Lac) meets with the deserved favor of people of this State.

It is by no means free of faults, but it evidences high in poetical talent. Mr. Chapman writes in a quiet vein, more of the Wordsworth school of poets, than in the later frenzy-rolling, extravagant style of many of the modern poets.

We believe this is his first volume, and perhaps he can obtain some useful idea from the numerous criticisms which have been made — some of which are unbounded in praise, and others as far as the other way in blame.

It is useless to deny to the author of such poems as "Karl," "The Dying School Boy," "A Leap Year Compliment" a fine ear for rythmic harmony, an appreciation of the beautiful and a delightful humor. — Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

25 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 20, 1941.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City was appointed director of civilian defense, an office established by executive order. President Roosevelt made the announcement that day.

Baritone Kenneth Kendall, choir director of First Evangelical Church, Neenah, and contralto Dorothy Flitcroft, Lawrence student from Juneau, were the soloists for the Appleton Male MacDowell concert at Neenah High School.

Poppy Day volunteers that year included Irene Retza, Brownie Laux, Elaine Cohen, Teddie Slater, Helen O'Keefe and Phylis Grunert. The young ladies were to work with American Legion Auxiliary chairman Mrs. Raymond G. Kleist.

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 22, 1956.

The Royal Host Bowling team was the 1956 champion of the Sherwood Major League. The team included Frank Kroiss, Ron Emmer, Wally Zastrow, Hilary Miller, Ray Ruffin and Tony Hoelzel.

Three new members of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce board were Dr. William E. Schultz, Lyal Stilp Sr. and Ralph McClone.

Mrs. Frank Schiedermayer was elected president of the American Legion Auxiliary at Appleton. Other new officers were Mrs. Melvin Maynard and Mrs. William Brinkman, vice president; Mrs. Harry Cunningham, treasurer; Mrs. Lawrence Spielbauer, poppy chairman; Mrs. Howard Feavel, chaplain, and Mrs. Sylvester Lynch, sergeant-at-arms.

Asks Why City Officials Should Not Have to Feed Parking Meters

Editor, Post-Crescent:

How disgusting it is to read of the cheap, chiseling antics of our Appleton City Officials, and Aldermen. It is indeed unfortunate that they must keep one eye on the clock, day in and day out, to keep from breaking the law. But, hold on folks! isn't that what all the rest of us taxpayers, and residents of the city must do? I may seem hard-hearted, but I am unable to shed a tear for the mayor, and his official group because they must "feed" a parking meter, not when I know their salaries are from perhaps $10,000 to $13,000 a year. When you compare this to the $3,000 to $3,500 that some of our store clerks and other downtown workers receive for their salaries, it is very evident that we have some highly unethical people in city government.

What a juvenile group these aldermen, who with the mayor, decide it should not be necessary for the mayor to use an alarm clock to time a parking meter. Our city would be in a sorry state, if the hundreds and hundreds of other downtown workers had to rely on this method. Why can't city hall do as the other adult workers must do when downtown? Park beyond the timed parking areas, or use the expensive parking ramps built for that purpose, where meters can be "Fed for all day". After all it was city hall that promoted parking meters for our former free off-street parking lots.

Instead of furnishing "free" parking for themselves, they should have considered providing the five stalls for free ten minute parking for the other thousands of people who find it necessary to do business at city hall.

I think this should enlighten all Appleton citizens as to where they stand with their elected officials. It is time "The People", demand these administrators do something for them, instead of to them.

Out-of-State Students Not Only Protesters at UW

Editor, Post-Crescent:

A recent statement made by Assemblyman Froehlich (R.-Appleton) recently quoted in the Milwaukee Journal, concerning a bill before the Legislature which would raise non-resident tuition from $1,050 per year to $1,500, reflects a very unfortunate prejudice held by many state politicians. The Journal of May 19 quoted Froehlich as saying:

"What could be better than depressing the number of out of state students? We wouldn't have so many New Yorkers sitting in buildings who should be in class."

Froehlich's logic is as regrettable as his poor understanding of the situation. Does he think New York students are the only ones who would refuse to pay such outrageous tuition? I know students from Indiana, Colorado, Germany, Canada, Chile, Virginia, Rhodesia, and many other places, as well as from the East, who help make Wisconsin an exciting and stimulating university.

Does he not care to know that the majority of students even from New York are "real people"—living in frat houses, getting drunk with, or hibernating in the dorm with the best of us in-staters?

Further, a poll of the homes of the people who participated in the sit-in at the Administration Bldg., protesting the U's cooperation with the Selective Service System (SSS), would be quite revealing to Froehlich, to Assemblyman Anderson of Waupaca, who introduced the new tuition bill, and a good many others who automatically cry "New Yorkers!" at hearing of any protest. Can they themselves think all in our society is unprotestable? If not, why do they fail to credit Wisconsin and other non-New York students with intelligence and concern?

They should't deny us that, for our Student Senate which represents all 29,000 students, and the Intra-Fraternity Council both passed, this week, resolutions echoing the demands of the demonstrators: that the University should refuse to release rank in class or any other material to the SSS which would help to discriminate among students.

It is regrettable, indeed, that these men are working to provincialize the student body of the U. of W.; for in doing so, a great faculty would suffer, as well as research grants and projects. The prestige our university has attained in all fields of knowledge and thought would diminish. I would suggest these men become acquainted with the facts of this state's university before destroying it as a result of groundless prejudices.

Wisconsin Report

Regional Politics One Reason Highway Program Is Opposed

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Peter Dugal of Cadott, in northwestern Wisconsin, provided one of the most illuminating comments on the highway funding issue in the Legislature when he spoke a few sentences as a citizen member of the Highway Advisory Committee which drafted the highway construction acceleration bill.

Wyngaard

Dugal is a convinced Democrat, of some standing in the Democratic party organization, and like most of his partisan associates, is not especially eager to give the Knowles administration a big highway achievement on which to campaign in the fall elections.

In private life he is an oil jobber, and the petroleum industry, for reasons not always altogether clear to the laity, is firmly, vigorously and indignantly opposed to the idea of more motor fuel taxes.

But it came Dugal's turn to vote as a member of the committee, and he offered a short explanation. He had opposed the funding bill, but he had changed his mind, he said.

"I drove to Madison this morning on Highway 12 and I am now convinced that something must be done about it," he said.

THE PROOF

U.S. Highway 12 is, indeed, a painful experience for the traveler. It is old, crowded, dangerous and obviously defective in terms of the standards of the times. The new interstate route spanning the state will ultimately replace it. One of the major objectives of the bonding provision of the pending compromise highway construction speed-up program is to advance the completion of the interstate segments from Tomah to La Crosse and from Tomah to Eau Claire by several years.

But there are many other sections of strategic highway within Wisconsin that are obsolete and obsolescent. Under the present schedule of financing they won't be replaced or significantly improved for years.

The difficulty is that the legislator in northern Wisconsin or on the northwestern section is not familiar with the perils of Highway 141 in Sheboygan or vicinity, or the annoying gaps in the route between Madison and the Fox River Valley, or the utter inadequacy of the main route between populous Rock County and metropolitan Milwaukee. Moreover, since he cannot have an ironclad guarantee for some immediate benefits in his own backyard, he is not especially eager to saddle his constituents with a new tax program in this campaign year for the benefit of distant residents of other counties. Manifestly, an efficient transport system is a contribution to the economy of the state as a whole. But not all legislators are philosophers. Such concepts are sometimes difficult to communicate.

THE OUTLOOK

The outlook for the compromise funding bill, shrunken as it is from the concept of the Reynolds administration only two years ago, in any realistic estimate is poor. Yet, and curiously, there are relatively few legislators who are denying that a better road program would be a benefit to the state. What they lack is assurance of something tangible in their own districts. To give them such an assurance, of course, is impossible in fiscal terms.

Typical of the influential opponents of the bill is Assemblyman Nikolay, the Democratic floorleader in the Assembly. He has proposed that the state acknowledge the emergency, if an emergency it is, by transferring the general fund general tax surplus into a special highway construction account. Yet his constituents may wonder if he intends to be taken seriously, and to endorse the idea of using general taxes for highway improvements that have always depended upon the utterly fair system of levying liability upon the road user in accordance with the extent of his road use and benefits from the highway system.

9-Year-Old Prompts Thoughts on Oscars

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My nine-year-old daughter has more sense than most of the grown men and women who voted for "The Sound of Music" as the best picture of the year at the annual Academy Awards last month.

"How can they give an Oscar to that picture?" she asked, as we were watching the televised program. "Of course, I enjoyed it, but it's just for kids—nobody could take it seriously!"

Harris

Despite the almost infinite number of categories that were given Oscars, the most important division was not made, either this year or any year in the past—and that is the distinction between a film that is merely diverting and one that is consequential.

In the field of photography, for instance, two separate awards were given, one for black-and-white and one for color. This is quite proper, for these require separate techniques, and it would be absurdly unfair to lump them together.

How much more essential, therefore, to separate those movies made for children (of any age) and those made primarily for adults. In the latter category, my own nomination would have been something like "The Pawnbroker." which, of course, didn't stand a chance against the coy cuteness of "The Sound of Music."

If the Academy Awards are to have any meaning, beyond their obvious commercial value, then the films themselves must be sharply segregated, so that popularity will be rewarded in one group, and artistic excellence in another. True, "The Sound of Music" may have been well acted, well directed, well mounted and well photographed but all these technical elements together add up to only one large and sticky taffy apple.

Beyond its quite legitimate aim of showing a profit, Hollywood wants also desperately to have status in the arts, to have its film-making looked upon as a significant contribution to the culture of our times. There can be no doubt that film-making has this great potential, so far almost totally unrealized by the major studios and their meek minions.

Courage, imagination and taste are the holy trinity in the arts: without these qualities, nothing but momentarily diverting trash can be produced. If the cinema is to become a compelling art-form as much as it has become an industry, it must grow up much faster than it has been able to do in the past. If it tries to compete for the children's market, it will surely and inevitably lose out to television.

When not even a nine-year-old girl can take "The Sound of Music" Oscar seriously, then surely it is time for Hollywood to revaluate its basis of awards and to make maturity at least one criterion for candidacy.

SNCC Heads Toward Role Of Third Party

New Chairman Says Organization Seeks Political Power

ATLANTA, Ga (AP) — Negroes should forget about integration and instead work to improve their lot by organizing political parties, said the new national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

"We feel that integration is irrelevant," said SNCC's Stokely Carmichael in an interview at his Atlanta office.

"We have got to go after political power."

Carmichael, 24, said Negroes must organize their own parties because they have been denied real participation in both major political parties.

Last Straw

Failure of third-party efforts, he said, would "be like the last straw in terms of doing things peacefully."

Negroes, Carmichael said, will achieve nothing unless they can build a political power base —at the local level, whether in a rural Southern county or in a Northern ghetto.

The trouble with integration efforts, he said, is that the Negro is going around begging for something.

"And all we've got is scars," he said.

"SNCC has to give the Negroes across the country something that they don't have to beg for," he said. "The white people in this country want us to remain in a begging state."

Cotton Fields, Ghettos

The political system, Carmichael said, does not provide representation for Negroes in the cotton fields and ghettos.

"One outside the ghetto does not speak for and represent them," he said.

Carmichael replaced John R. Lewis, 26, as titular head of the loosely run SNCC. Lewis was considerably less active in the third-party movement.

Carmichael, born in Trinidad, West Indies, is 6-foot-1 and weighs 170. He has perpetually drooping eyelids and a soft voice.

Lounging in a chair in his sparsely furnished office, he wore a faded denim shirt, unbuttoned all the way down the front, blue jeans and heavy boots.

Tried Integration

"We have tried organizing around integration," Carmichael said. "But our experience showed us there was no need to integrate. It didn't help the poor white any more than the Negro."

Carmichael came to the United States in 1952, went to school in Bronx, New York, and was graduated from Howard University, Washington, in 1964. He joined SNCC in 1961.

Carmichael organized the all-Negro third party in Lowndes County, Alabama. The party, flying the black panther emblem, has put up a slate of Negro candidates for county offices to oppose white Democrats in the November election.

Contenders Undecided

GOP Possibles Can't Make Up Their Minds

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ranks of the would-be 1968 Republican presidential candidates look a little thinner — maybe — but a politician's second thoughts are like a rescue squad that keeps him breathing.

The Republicans have had some notable switch-arounds, like New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Barry Goldwater, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

All of them at one time or another said they wouldn't dream of wanting the Republican presidential nomination —Rockefeller and Goldwater just said it again — and then contradicted themselves.

Monday Rockefeller, saying he would seek a third term as governor this year, declared himself out of the presidential running "forever, without reservation." He had sought the nomination twice.

Definite Decision

In 1959, when he said he would not be a candidate in 1960, he described his decision as "definite and final." As the 1960 convention drew near he said he was willing to be drafted. Nixon got the nomination.

When Rockefeller did actively go after it in 1964, Goldwater got it, only to be drowned in that year's election by President Johnson.

This month Goldwater, asked if he'd try again, said, "It would be stupid. It would be a mistake to nominate anybody who was beaten as bad as I was. I would be the first to say no."

But at the same time he said he expects the 1968 Republican convention to be about as conservative as the one which nominated him two years ago. If he changes his mind about running, it won't be the first time.

Run for Senate

From 1960 to 1964 he kept saying he would not seek the presidential nomination, didn't want it, and simply wanted to run for the Senate. Then on Jan. 3, 1964, he declared himself a candidate and began campaigning.

Now he is saying again he just wants to run for the Senate, this time in 1968.

In politics Nixon is a hardy perennial who has flip-flopped like the others.

Within a year after John F. Kennedy defeated him for the presidency in 1960 Nixon was saying, "I shall not be a candidate for president in 1964. I shall be a candidate for governor of California in 1962."

And he was, only to be beaten by Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Then Nixon promptly held a news conference, denounced the press for its treatment of him, and declared it was his last news conference: "You won't have Nixon to kick around."

Back in Public

He went even further 10 days later, saying that was his last campaign for public office. Within a few months he was holding news conferences again. And in 1963 he was saying he would not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination again.

"That answers all questions of that type," he said. "My statement means there can be no draft."

But in 1964 he said he would accept a draft, explaining: "If the opportunity should come again, I would accept it." Goldwater got it.

Since then Nixon has kept himself in the public eye with statements, oral and written, on public affairs and running the government, avoiding talk about the 1968 nomination which he might not be anxious for if by then President Johnson is riding high.

Housewife Runs Against Wishes Of Gop Bosses

Insurgent Wants To Broaden Appeal Of Illinois Party

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

OAKLAWN, Ill. — In these rock-ribbed Republican south suburbs of Chicago, a revolt is in full force against the dead hand of Bourbonism that has been destroying the Republican party in Illinois.

The revolt against the regular party chieftains here, who like the Bourbons of ancient France remember everything and learn nothing, is limited to just one seat in the Illinois legislature. The rebels are attempting to elect a suburban housewife named Marjorie Pebworth, an able and intelligent incumbent marked for purge by the Bourbons, who now is running for re-election as an insurgent.

Evans

Yet, her race has more than parochial interest, if only for the tacit support she has from big name Illinois Republicans — including Charles H. Percy, candidate for the U.S. Senate and nemesis of the Bourbons. Moreover, the underlying elements of Mrs. Pebworth's insurgency are by no means limited to Illinois.

Still Control Party

The problem here is common to all states that, like Illinois, once were rural and Republican but now are urbanized and Democratic. In the old days, a handful of party workers controlled the party and won elections. Today, while still controlling the party, they no longer win state-wide elections.

But the state-wide decline in Illinois Republicanism was of little concern to the Bourbons in these south suburbs (Republican by a margin of 4 to 1). For them, party politics was a closed society strictly limited to the few.

But, in Worth Township (population: 100,000), only 9,000 Republicans voted in the 1964 primary. This was the 1964 election, when all candidates for the Illinois House of Representatives ran at-large because of the failure to reapportion the legislature. Percy and other state party leaders signed up a "blue-ribbon" slate to head the ticket of at-large candidates. One of the slate's candidates was Earl Eisenhower, the former President's brother. Another was Marjorie Pebworth.

Respected Figure

A lobbyist in the state capital and later state president for the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Pebworth was a respected state-wide figure. But to the township committeemen, she had a fatal flaw: she was new to party politics. She was not one of them.

She ran seventh out of 112 Republican legislative candidates in the 1964 at-large election, but this did not impress the Bourbons in her home district. Still playing discredited backlash politics, they were furious when, as a state representative, she introduced and supported legislation to bar racial discrimination in housing.

Their chance for revenge came when the legislature reapportioned itself. Mrs. Pebworth announced her candidacy in a new south suburban district, but the district's four Republican township committeemen purged her in a secret meeting. Instead, the party endorsement went to a former police magistrate who ran 107th out of the 112 candidates in the 1964 at-large election.

That decision last Feb. 19 might have ended Mrs. Pebworth's political career. In Republican districts, endorsement is tantamount to nomination which is tantamount to election. Insurgency is forbidden.

But Mrs. Pebworth refused to accept that fact. After rejecting a bid from Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner to switch parties, she carefully checked with major party leaders: Percy; Cook County (Chicago) Chairman Timothy Sheehan: Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, the district's conservative but practical congressman. They could not openly back her. But they made it clear, they would have no objections if she taught the Bourbons a lesson.

Favored to Win

That's precisely what she is doing (after defeating a Bourbon attempt to keep her off the ballot on a technicality). Not only is she favored to win the June 14 primary, but she is changing the nature of politics here.

Previously, Republican legislative candidates ran a pro forma campaign among the party faithful. In her insurgent campaign, Mrs. Pebworth addresses civic groups, shakes hands in supermarkets and knocks on doors. More important, she and her colleagues from the League of Women Voters, ask Independents and erstwhile Democrats to vote for her in the Republican primary.

In brief, she is attempting to broaden the party's pitiably narrowed base, a goal actually opposed by the Bourbons. To achieve this in just one legislative district scarcely transforms Republican politics in Illinois, but it could be the first step on a long journey.

Man Fined $75 For Misconduct, Resisting Arrest

Harassment of a Shiocton policeman cost Dwayne Pelkey, 23, Shiocton, $75 and costs after he was found guilty Monday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Pelkey was arrested about 2 a.m. Sunday by Shiocton Police Chief Ray Muskavitch who said he interfered with investigation of a three-car accident in the village. Pelkey reportedly was disturbed by a five-day warning ticket he had received earlier.

The Shiocton man reportedly continued to give police trouble on the way to the sheriff's office.

Pelkey pleaded no contest to both counts and was found guilty by County Judge Gustave J. Keller. He was fined $25 and costs or 12 days on the disorderly count and $50 and costs or 24 days on the resisting arrest charge.

Eye Protection Tips Given For Summer Vacationers

NEW YORK — "For complete eye protection while on vacation, wear sunglasses with shatter-resistant lenses and safety frames," advises the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc.

The sight -saving organization offers the following eye safety hints:

Sunbathers should never look directly at the sun while wearing sunglasses — the tinted lenses provide relief from the glare but not protection from the dangerous infra-red rays that can penetrate the dark glass and damage the retina of the eye.

Boatmen and anglers should realize that the glare of the sun's reflection in water can transmit enough ultra-violet light to harm the eye. This could lead to a loss of vision so gradual that the victim might not be aware of what was happening until too late. Sunglasses will reduce the glare.

Driving at Dusk

Sunglasses should be removed before driving at dusk. Tinted glasses which cut down glare in daylight reduce visibility after sundown. Road signs and traffic lights needed by the driver to avoid accident may be obscured.

Fishermen should include protective glasses with case hardened or plastic lenses and safety frames in the angling kit. They provide a protective shield against needle-sharp hooks, barbed fish lures and heavy metal sinkers, which are a real threat to eyesight.

Free information on eye safety and health can be obtained by writing to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc., Box 426, New York, N. Y. 10019

Electric Shock Fatal to Worker

ANTIGO (AP) — A construction worker was shocked fatally Monday when the boom of a crane he was operating touched a high tension wire.

The victim, Jerome Marvin, 33, of rural Antigo, was rushed by ambulance 200 miles to St. Mary's Hospital burn center in Milwaukee, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Langlade County authorities said Marvin had been operating a crane unloading concrete blocks from a truck at the site of a coin-operated laundry under construction in the Pickerel area 25 miles northeast of here. He was an employe of the Antigo Block Co.

Different Problems Face 2 Viet Nams

North Developed for Decade Without Outside Threat, Trouble

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

South Viet Nam is engulfed incessantly in turmoil while the Communist north — for all the outside world knows — seems free of it. Why?

How is it that the northern regime appears able to escape political trouble and control its people while southern regimes seem incapable of doing so?

Probably there are several answers:

The northern regime has not, in fact, been without troubles stemming from the protracted war.

Bombings of the north may have aided the Red regime in countering morale problems.

The northern regime had 10 years virtually free from outside peril and could construct and fortify a classical Communist power structure to keep its people under control.

Religious Difference

There is no question in the north of Buddhist opposition as such. The religious situation there is much what it was in the south before the Buddhists started to organize politically against the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

The local faith in the north was mostly a vague mixture of animism, ancestor worship, a deep imprint of Chinese Confucianism and elements of Chinese Buddhism. Under the Communists, Buddhists never would have had a chance to become a political factor, much less organize.

In the south, U.S. influence has upheld democratic rights. Another factor was American shock over conflicts between the Diem regime and the Buddhists. And agitation, in a glare of publicity, has become highly contagious.

Bound for Action

Under these conditions, the political elements of Buddhism found fertile ground for action.

This does not mean that there is clear sailing in the north in contrast to the south.

There is little question there have been difficulties growing out of war weariness. Earlier this year, Politburo member Le Duc Tho severely lectured those who "entertain pacifism, slacken their vigilance and fail to get ideologically ready for combat."

"They see only difficulties and do not see opportunities, show pessimism, perplexity and a reluctance to protracted resistance," he complained.

Too many, he said, "still fear sacrifices and hardship, shrink from difficulties. . . have low organizational, disciplinary and revolutionary fighting spirit."

Le Duc Tho said party members were "too coercive with the masses." The party's prestige was hurt by this because "the greatest peril is separation from the masses." In some areas, he said, there was "a serious state of disunity."

Higher Morale

Two British correspondents admitted to Hanoi within the last year have suggested that U.S. bombings, putting the northerners' homeland under attack, may have helped the Communists sustain morale.

Thousands of people now are in militia corps. Thousands are busy digging air-raid shelters, manning defense posts, drilling. Air-defense units, mobile repair teams and first-aid groups are on the alert 24 hours a day. So many men are on duty that, the party has reported, 70 per cent of the industrial labor force now is made up of women.

The listed bombing targets have been military: roads, bridges, communications, barracks, arms dumps and the like.

The Communist north — an area always poorer than the south — is accustomed to rural privations. All along it has been on an austerity basis. Any disruptions in the economy due to bombings have had doubtful impact.

Rationing Used

There is rationing in North Viet Nam: rice, meat, sugar and cotton — but this is nothing new. and there are no indications of extreme privation.

In addition to all this, the northern regime has had a long time to organize. In 21 years since Ho Chi Minh moved into Hanoi with the proclamation of a republic there has been indoctrination from childhood for a whole generation.

Today there are 2.5 million children in the Communist Young Pioneers. The best get the title of "Good Nephew (or Niece) of Uncle Ho." About 1.5 million young people are organized in the Viet Nam Labor Youth Union.

When Ho was building his party and country few had any notion of what communism was. He was, to many in North Viet Nam, what George Washington had been to the United States. He identified himself with the peasants and championed them.

Well Organized

He had a head start in organization. Chiang Kai-shek's troops occupied the north, charged with disarming the Japanese. They were reluctant to get out, and by the time they did and the French were on the way back, Ho was already well organized, with Vietminh guerrillas holding much of Tonkin. Feeling against the French was high, and Ho had little difficulty in establishing authority.

The Communist structure was along the classical lines learned by Ho in the old days as a Communist international agent. It is organized at village, district, province, precinct and zonai levels in a pyramid which concentrates power at the top in the hands of the Politburo. Once that was accomplished, there was little future in opposition.
